SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

FORTRESS MONROE, Wednesday, May 7. } Via BALTIMORE, Thursday, May 8. }

The boat from Yorktown to-day brings reports from the army to 12 o'clock M. The enemy was still in full retreat, and followed closely by our cavalry.

Constant skirmishing between our advance and their rear guard was kept up.

The enemy seems disposed to contest every inch of the way—at least to make a safe retreat.

The rebels burnt their gunboats in York River yesterday morning.

We have taken many prisoners in small companies, but I cannot learn of any large body having been captured. Two companies of the Eighth Illinois Cavalry are reported captured by the enemy.

The enemy was driven out of Williamsburgh early on Monday morning. Our troops rushed over their works and drove them from their trenches by a desperate bayonet charge.

Gen. McCLELLAN was struck by a piece of shell but was not injured.

The opinion prevails here that if FRANKLIN'S Division receive reinforcements in time a great part of the rebel army will be captured.

The roads are in a very bad condition, by which our advance is greatly impeded.

The Excelsior Brigade (SICKLES') lost about 240 men in killed and wounded. I can get at but few names of those lost, as the confusion is so great that details are hard to be obtained. The following are the names of some of the killed in SICKLES' Brigade:

Capt. BARRETT.
Capt. WILLARD.
Lieut. BAILEY.

WOUNDED.

Capt. GREENLEAF, severely.
Lieut. HARTNEY, seriously.
Lieut. MARCUS, seriously.
Sergeant-Major CLARKE, seriously.
Sergeant PACKARD, seriously.
Capt. JOHNSON, seriously.
Capt. WATERMAN, seriously.
Assistant Adjt.-Gen. HART was struck by four balls.
Col. DWIGHT, wounded and taken prisoner.
Maj. HOLT, seriously, while leading on his men.

The body of Capt. WILLARD was rifled of his watch and money by the enemy, as were many of our dead. His remains was brought here to-day, en route for New-York.

LATE AND HIGHLY IMPORTANT.

The Galena, Accompanied by Two Gunboats, Gone up the James River—The Monitor and Naugatuck, with a Number of Gunboats, Gone to Sewall's Point.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, May 8—A. M.

The iron-clad ship-of-war Galena, and the gunboats Aroostook and Port Royal, started up James River at 6 o'clock this morning. They have passed Day's Point battery, and heavy firing has been heard up the river since their departure. They will cut off the river communication with the rebel army south of the Chickahominy.

Instantly after the gunboats started, the rebel tugboat J. B. White came out in front of Newport's News, having left Norfolk this morning with a crew and two citizens on board, on a mission to Tannery Point. By previous consent, they ran over to Newport's News and surrendered to Gen. MANSFIELD.

This is the third time they have attempted to escape, and they are now most happy individuals.

Sewall's Point is being evacuated.

The Monitor, Naugatuck, and several gunboats, have just left for Sewall's Point.

THE MOVEMENT BY WAY OF WEST POINT.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 8.

The Star says: The Secretary of War has the following, taken from the special correspondence of the Baltimore American:

The Divisions of Gen. Franklin and Sedgwick, numbering about 20,000 men, have been landed at West Point. 20 miles above Williamsburgh, at the head of York River, and the Division of Gen. Porter is now embarking on steamers for the same destination, together with the Rhode Island and other batteries, and the river from Yorktown up is lined with steamers and transports. No doubt is entertained but that they will intercept and cut off the fleeing rebels, unless they escape across the James River.

ACCOUNT OF THE WILLIAMSBURGH FIGHT.

BALTIMORE, Thursday, May 8.

The following is from the American's account of the battle at Williamsburgh:

The battle before Williamsburgh on Monday was a most warmly-contested engagement. Owing to the roughness of the country and bad condition of the roads but a small portion of our troops could be brought into action.

Gen. SICKLES' Excelsior Brigade and Gen. HOOKER'S Division bore the great brunt of the battle and fought most valiantly throughout, though greatly overpowered by numbers and the superior position and earthworks of the enemy. The approaches to their works were a series of ravines and swamps, whilst rain fell in torrents throughout the day. The men had also been lying on their arms all the previous night in a wood, and were soaked with the rain and chilled with cold. The battle raged from early in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when Gen. McCLELLAN arrived with fresh troops, and relieved the division of Gen. HOOKER, who were nearly prostrate with fatigue and exposure, whilst the Third Excelsior Regiment of SICKLES' Brigade had its ranks terribly thinned by the balls of the enemy. They are represented as having fought with such imprudent bravery that not less than two hundred of them were killed and wounded.

After the arrival of Gen. McCLELLAN, the enemy were fiercely charged by HANCOCK'S Brigade, and were driven within their works before nightfall, with heavy loss.

Nearly 700 of their dead were left on the field, with many wounded, though most of the latter were carried into Williamsburgh.

Our loss was less than 300 killed and about 700 wounded.

Night having come on we occupied the battle-field, the enemy having been driven within his works, and our forces laid on their arms, prepared to storm the works in the morning.

At daylight on Tuesday morning Gen. McCLELLAN sent out scouts, whilst preparing to move on the enemy's works, who soon reported that he had again taken his flight during the night.

The works of the enemy and the city of Williamsburgh were then taken.

Fort Magruder was a most extensive work, capable of prolonged defence, but the enemy had abandoned it early in the night, retreating in the greatest alarm and confusion, as described by a few negro women who were found in the town.

A large number of wagons, munitions, and considerable store provisions, were found in the town, while the road was strewn for many miles with arms and accoutrements.

A number of deserters also made their escape, and came within our lines, who stated that they had received intelligence that large numbers of Federal troops were landing on York River, above Williamsburgh, to flank them.

YORKTOWN, Wednesday, May 7—12 M.

As I close my letter the latest intelligence received from the field of battle is, that Gen. McCLELLAN has come up with the enemy about eight miles beyond Williamsburgh, and after a pretty severe skirmish with his rear has again put him to flight across the Chickahominy. A large additional number of prisoners have been taken, including many deserters, who report that they have had nothing to eat but a few hard biscuits for 48 hours, and when brought in fell down in a state of exhaustion. Heavy cannonading could be heard by the boats coming down the river at an early hour this morning. Nothing as to results is yet ascertained. There is no doubt but that the whole army of LEE, JOHNSTON and MAGRUDER are in a state of utter disorganization, and under the rapid pursuit of Gen. McCLELLAN and fleeing with great precipitation without the intention of making a stand anywhere, and unless they reach Richmond in boats by way of James River, they will certainly be intercepted and captured by the forces landing and landed at West Point. Not less than fifty steamers are engaged in transporting the balance of the army to West Point. A large number of prisoners are arriving at West Point and others are being constantly brought in. On Monday, the enemy took about eighty of our men prisoners and captured one of the Pennsylvania batteries, having first killed all the horses. They having but a small support of infantry were overwhelmed by a superior force and were compelled to abandon their guns, but before the close of the day this battery with one of the enemy's was recaptured by Gen. McCLELLAN, and the prisoners they had taken were found in Williamsburgh next day engaged in attending on the wounded of the enemy they had left behind. The retreat of the enemy was accompanied by too much confusion and haste to be troubled with the prisoners.

LATEST.—I have just learned that the enemy have destroyed all the bridges across the Chickahominy and that Gen. McCLELLAN is resting his army on this side. It will be remembered that the Chickahominy runs parallel with the James River, into which it enters. It is the general impression that Gen. McCLELLAN has now got the enemy just where he wants them."

DEPARTMENT OF THE RAPPAHANNOCK.

A Cavalry Reconnoissance to Culpepper Court-House.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 8.

Information has been received here that a cavalry reconoissance was recently made to Culpepper Court-House. Seven prisoners on horseback were captured as they were endeavoring to escape. They have been sent to Washington. Our troops were favorably received by the people, but only temporarily occupied the town.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SHENANDOAH.

Rejoicing in Gen. Banks's Army Over the Yorktown News—The Late Rout of Ashby's Cavalry, &c.

NEW-MARKET, Va., Wednesday, May 7.

There is a great jubilee in the army to-day. At noon to-day 100 guns were fired in honor of the Yorktown victory. Consolidated bands visited Gens. BANKS, WILLIAMS and HATCH, and played patriotic airs through the streets. They also visited the camp of the Ira Harris Cavalry as a mark of honor to their gallant charge yesterday. The details of that affair show that the rebel cavalry had a battery which they opened on our men. The latter deployed, and waited till two of our guns were placed in position, when the enemy's battery was soon driven back and the Ira Harris Cavalry dashed on to the rebels with yells and sabres, driving them back to the suburbs of the town. Our cavalry were commanded by Major VOUGHT, of the Third Battalion. Adjt. HASBROUCK, of the Harris Cavalry, was taken prisoner by the enemy. The enemy's force was four hundred; ours less.

NEW-MARKET, Va., Thursday, May 8.

Yesterday afternoon the rebel pickets above Columbiana Bridge, on the east side of the Shenandoah were driven back by detachments under Col. FOSTER, who was subsequently ambuscaded by two rebel regiments. The action lasted an hour, when FOSTER withdrew in good order. The enemy did not pursue. A company of Vermont Cavalry was cut off and surrounded, but escaped by swimming the river. The enemy's loss is not stated, except seven prisoners belonging to the Sixth Virginia and Seventh Louisiana, which indicates that the enemy's force was one of EWELL'S brigades. This morning 12 of our men were reported missing.

It is reported here that a skirmish occurred yesterday, near Staunton, between MILROY'S advance and EDWARD JOHNSON'S command. The latter was repulsed and retreated.

THE CAPTURE OF NEW-ORLEANS

Arrival of a Bearer of Dispatches at Fortress Monroe.

Forts Jackson, St. Philip, Livingston, and Pike in Our Possession.

The Mississippi Open from the Gulf to Baton Rouge, and Probably to Memphis.

From Eight to Ten Millions Worth of Cotton and Shipping Destroyed by the Rebels.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, May 8.

To Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:

I have the honor to announce that in the providence of God, which smiles upon a just cause, the squadron under Flagofficer FARRAGUT has been vouchsafed a glorious victory and triumph in the capture of the city of New-Orleans, Forts Jackson, St. Philip, Livingston and Pike, the batteries below and above New-Orleans as well as the total destruction of the enemy's gunboats, steam-rams, floating batteries, (iron-clad,) fire-rafts, and obstructions, booms and chains.

The enemy, with their own hands, destroyed from eight to ten millions of cotton and shipping.

Our loss is 36 killed and 123 wounded. The enemy lost from 1,000 to 1,500, besides several hundred prisoners.

The way is clear, and the rebel defences destroyed from the Gulf to Baton Rouge, and probably to Memphis. Our flag waves triumphantly over them all. I am bearer of dispatches.

THEODORUS BAILEY,
Captain, and second in command of the attacking force of gunboat Cayuga.

The Fleet Two Hundred and Fifty Miles Above New-Orleans.

THE REBELS FORTIFYING.

Under date of Cairo, Sunday, May 4, the correspondent of the Chicago Times telegraphs:

A refugee from Vicksburgh, Miss., passed through here to-day, en route for St. Louis. He brings news of importance, having left Memphis on Sunday last. Memphis papers of that morning published a dispatch announcing the occupation of Baton Rouge by Federal forces, and the passage up the river of Federal gunboats. The largest vessels of the fleet were left behind at New-Orleans, which city was nearly deserted. BUTLER'S army had landed, and were occupying the city. An immense amount of cotton in warehouses was discovered and seized. The Union citizens had held a public rejoicing, at which hundreds crowded together, and indulged in the most enthusiastic demonstrations of joy. In the passage of gunboats up the river but little resistance was made to them, there being no rebel troops to contest the way, until the fleet arrived at Baton Rouge. Here, as my informant says, were stationed a few rebel troops, most of whom were lately enrolled, according to the provisions of the conscription act. These, however, fled before the fleet made its appearance. The United States Arsenal and Barracks at this point were recovered, and the old flag waves once more over the Government property in Louisiana.

The Southern papers are very meagre of news respecting the passage of the gunboat fleet up the river, most of their articles being made up of verbose exhortations addressed to the people to defend the Mississippi Valley from the enemy.

Citizens of Vicksburgh, Natchez and other places along the river, were flying in great numbers to Memphis, which was in a fever of excitement.

A citizen of Natchez told my informant that a strong force of Mississippi troops was garrisoning Fort Davis, which is located on Ellis Cliffs, nearly twenty-five miles below Natchez. These cliffs form a high ridge on the east bank of the Mississippi, commencing twenty miles below Natchez, and extending for several miles along the river. It was thought in Memphis that the fortifications on this ridge would offer a serious impediment to the passage of the Yankee fleet.

Great alarm, however, was felt, and many were leaving for the interior.

With regard to the progress already made by the Federal fleet, the publication of such news had been forbidden, but it was reported by persons arriving from below that the gunboats of the enemy had arrived at Fort Adams, which they had passed without resistance, and were near Fort Dana.

At Vicksburgh, a fortification which has been in progress of construction for the last two weeks was nearly completed. Guns of heavy calibre had been sent from Memphis and mounted in the fort.

The rebel fleet from New-Orleans had arrived at Memphis, and was dispatched to the immediate relief of the fleet off Fort Pillow.

A large number of rebel steamers had taken refuge up White River. The rolling stock of railroads had been concentrated at Memphis, in readiness to take away the citizens in case the Federal fleets shall make their apperance.

The cities and towns in the Mississippi Valley are plunged into the greatest terror by the unexpected capture of New-Orleans. Great indignation is felt toward Gen. LOVELL, whom they accuse of cowardice and imbecility.

The correspondent of the St. Louis Republican, writing from the Mississippi Flotilla, says:

"Commodore FOOTE has received a dispatch which states that our Atlantic gunboats were at Baton Rouge, taking in more ammunition from the Arsenal at that place, preparatory to ascending still higher. This being so, they are likely to see Memphis before Commodore FOOTE'S fleet does. What the gunboats lie here for, like a lot of floating laundries, is more than I can see."

[Fort Adams, which our fleet is reported to have passed, is an old Government work near the mouth of the Homichitto River. It is 226 miles above New-Orleans, and but 54 miles below Natchez, Miss.—EDITOR NEW-YORK TIMES.]

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI VALLEY.

Great Destruction of Property Along the River by the Rebels.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Thursday, May 8.

Two thoroughly "reliable gentlemen," Kentuckians, who have just arrived from New-Orleans, report that all along the Mississippi, from Memphis to New-Orleans, there is one general bonfire of property, particularly of cotton, of which 11,700 bales were burned at New-Orleans.

At Memphis, the sugar and molasses, in large quantities, is on the bluff, ready to be rolled into the river, and all the stock of cotton is ready to be fired, on the approach of the Federal fleet.

The people of the river towns are retreating inward, and destroying property, along all the Southern tributaries of the Mississippi, the planters in many cases applying the torch to their own cotton. The rebel Government has also boats running up the river, destroying cotton. Among the great numbers, only one planter was found who objected to the burning of his cotton.

OPERATIONS BELOW NEW-ORLEANS.

Work of the Mortar Fleet During the Bombardment of Forts Jackson and St. Phillip.

The following documents give a complete idea of the operations of the mortar fleet. They are furnished by our Special Correspondent, whose letters we published yesterday morning:

REPORT FROM THE FLAGSHIP OF THE SECOND DIVISION.

FORT JACKSON, April 19, 1862.

Commenced firing at 6:25 A. M., and made signal to the other vessels of the Division (Third) to do the same.

6:32.—The enemy has made no reply.

6:33.—Second shell was fired from one of the vessels of the First or Second Division, on this side of the river. Clear and pleasant, with very light wind from the east.

6:44.—Firing becoming brisk. No reply from the fort as yet.

7 A. M.—Mortars are now firing slow, and seem to be trying to get a sure range. At the first fire this morning the enemy hoisted his flag.

7:11.—Sea Foam fired her first shell.

7:21.—First shot was fired by the enemy, striking in the river ahead of the mortar schooner.

7:32.—Enemy firing from the fort and from either Fort St. Philip or else from the guns supposed to be mounted on the old hulks sustaining the chain across the river below the forts. Mortars keeping up a steady fire, though so far it has not been as fast as at most times during yesterday.

7:50.—Shot and shell from the enemy falling fast in the woods on our port bow and all around us. None of the gunboats have moved up the river as yet; and there has been no firing on our side except from the mortars.

8.—Firing at the rate of one shell to from five to seven minutes.

8:25.—Shot from a battery, which seems to be up the river on the other side, are falling fast all around us; just received word from Capt. PORTER to fire every 10 minutes.

8:30.—Gunboat No. 6 is steaming up the river; has just called to quarters; mortar vessels are firing better.

8:40.—No. 6 fired her first shot. Owasco and other gunboats are going up and firing.

8:57.—Mortars, assisted by four gunboats, are firing well and steady; gunboats, I think, are endeavoring to silence the batteries on the other side of the river. No shots from the enemy have been seen to fall down this way for some minutes.

This morning, on board the Sarah Bruin, (Third Division,) something was seen to strike and enter the foremast, on the afterside; on examination it was found to be a piece of the enemy's shell, which, it is supposed, struck the mortar and then fell inside—when the mortar was fired the piece of shell was thrown out and entered the foremast.

9:20.—Mortars still keeping up a steady fire. Shot from the enemy falling around us fast. This vessel has not been struck as yet.

9:40.—The Oneida went up. Four gunboats are up there now, and seem to be doing well. At 9:36 we made a splendid shot; it could be seen to go right in the fort, and we suppose did considerable damage. Shot falling all around us. We have just heard that No. 12, one of the vessels of the Second Division, has received a shot through her, and is sinking. Two of the wounded from a mortar vessel have just passed down the river in a boat.

11:30.—Mortars are firing beautifully, at the rate of one to six minutes. No. 12 is fast sinking, but she seems to be drawn upon the bank, and boats are removing different articles from her. We are now throwing shell right in the fort, but the smoke is so dense that we cannot see what damage we are doing. Enemy's shot and shell are falling fast around the Oneida and the other gunboats up there. The Sarah Brown (Third Division) is said to be firing well, and with good effect. Commodore FARRAGUT just passed by and complimented her.

10:50.—Have not heard any shot from the enemy for ten minutes. Mortars firing fast and sure; gunboats, especially the Oneida and Owasco, are well employed. The Maria J. Carlton, (No. 12, Second Division,) lying about four lengths above this vessel, received a shot which entered her cabin, passed through the magazine, and came out below the water line. One man only was wounded, and the vessel sank half an hour after. Capt. PORTER was near at the time, and attended to her. The mortar will either be put on another vessel or else rolled into the river. Pieces of the enemy's shell have been picked up on this and other vessels of our division. A shot, probably from Fort St. Philip, just passed us, and fell a few yards astern. One just before that passed over us, and fell some distance astern.

No fire-rafts have been sent down to-day by the enemy, so far. Three came down yesterday, and one the night before, but did no damage, as they were towed by boats clear of all the vessels, and then made fast to the bank.

11:20.—Mortars keeping up a good fire.

11:40.—The Oneida is floating down with the current, making some splendid shots at the enemy. Their fire is very heavy at her; two gunboats are assisting her. Mortars firing slow, but sure, making, we think, some splendid shots. Shot and shell from Fort St. Philip are falling just above here at a dreadful rate. The Oneida just passed down, receiving three cheers from the "bummers" as she went by.

12 M.—Still firing, we think, with good effect. Up to this time we have thrown thirty-seven shell.

12:18.—Racer (Third Division) made a splendid shot. Charge, sixteen pounds.

1 P. M.—Bombardment still going on. Though the mortars do not fire so fast as they did yesterday, we think they are doing more damage to the enemy. Several gunboats are now up the river, taking a shot at the enemy whenever an opportunity offers. We have heard of no accidents on board any of the vessels of this division as yet. They all seem to fire well.

1:10—The Oneida is again going up, and the enemy's fire is directed toward her.

1:44.—Oneida came down, having received a shot in the port side, at the after gun. She is making signal for surgeons. Mortars firing fast and well. We hear that a great number of shell are being put into the fort. The Carlton (No. 12) cannot be of any more service—her guns have been taken to the Horace Beals, flagship of the Third Division.

2:45.—Capt. PORTER came alongside, and ordered us to use full-length fuses (nine-inch.)

3:35.—Pieces of the enemy's shell are falling all around us. Mortars firing well, sometimes briskly, and then again slow. It is almost impossible to tell now how our shell are falling.

4 P. M.—Capt. GUEST passed, and brought word from Capt. PORTER that we had a good range and were doing well. "Shelling" still going on with a will—now and then there's a lull; but suddenly we start up, and throw shell in quick succession. At one time four of the Third Division fired their shells in about ten seconds' time. Enemy's shot falling on our starboard side, some distance off.

The men are becoming very tired, and, though we did at first have to open our mouths wide and stand on the tips of our toes to break the shock of the firing, now we've become used to it, and men off watch can be seen lying around the deck sleeping soundly, not even the terrible noise made by the explosion of 19 pounds of powder can waken them. The vessel seems to dart down in the water about six inches and rise up quickly, all the chains jump around, dishes rattle and break, planks are loosened, and our dear heads seem to be coming off when this "chowder-pot and skouse kettle," as the sailors call it, is discharged.

4:20.—A piece of the enemy's shell, weighing about quarter of a pound, was found on board, close to the mortar.

4:45.—Capt. BREESE, commanding this division, sent word to us by Capt. SMITH to use three ounces more powder, and that we were firing too far to the right. On board the Sarah Bruin the fore-stay was found to be cut away entirely, the fore springstay and outer pitstay were stranded, and pieces of shell were found all around the deck.

The mortar bed has revolved about one inch to the right in two and a-half hours firing, probably owing to a slight list to starboard; this morning it went an inch to the left.

The enemy has not fired for about half an hour. We have kept up a steady fire all the time, doing, we think, considerable damage to the fort. No gunboats are up the river at present.

5:50.—Third Division still firing.

6:27.—Our division alone is firing, and beautifully; all the shell appear to go right.

7:10—DARK.—Third Division firing still. We got the range before dark, and made lamps fast to the bank to fire by to-night.

At 8 o'clock we ceased firing, our watch being out. First Division to follow us, and fire from 8 P. M. to midnight; Second Division to fire from that time to 4 A. M., when we are to commence again, and keep the ball going until ordered to stop. During the watch have fired 92 shell. A. W. BACON, Clerk.

On board bomb-schooner John Griffith, at present Flagship of Third Division, K. R. BREESE, Lieutenant-Commanding.

REPORT OF THE CAPTAIN OF THE SCHOONER DAN SMITH.

UNITED STATES SCHOONER DAN SMITH. MISSISSIPPI RIVER, April 25, 1862.

SIR: Allow me to present the following report of the United States schooner Dan Smith, in the late bombardment of Forts Jackson and St. Philip:

At 12½ P. M., on the 18th inst., received orders to take our position; accordingly we weighed anchor and made sail for our position, where we moored and cleared for action. At 2 P. M. we commenced firing, which we continued until 6:40 P. M., when we ceased firing by order of signal from Harriet Lane, having thrown 31 shell, many of them taking effect.

19th—Commenced firing at 6:47 A. M., and ceased at 8 P. M., having thrown 92 shell.

20th—Commenced firing at 4 A. M., which we continued till 9:15 A. M., when we ceased, to enable the men to get breakfast, after which we again commenced, keeping it up through the day and night until 4 A. M. of the 21st, throwing 119 shell, a large number of which exploded in and about the forts.

At 12 M. of the 21st commenced again; at 4 P. M. ceased; at 8 P. M. again commenced firing, and kept it up till midnight, throwing 65 shell.

22d—At 8 A. M. commenced firing; at 12 M. ceased; at 6 P. M. again commenced firing, which we continued till 8 P. M., when we ceased, after having thrown 67 shell.

23d—At 4 A. M. commenced firing; at 8 A. M. ceased; at 4 P. M. commenced again, and continued to fire until 6 P. M., when we ceased, after throwing 69 shell.

24th—Commenced firing at 10 P. M. and kept it up till 4¼ A. M., when we ceased as per signal from Harriet Lane, and cleared away side guns, shifting the port gun to starboard. At 7½ commenced firing at the floating battery; at 8¼ A. M. ceased firing with mortar, and called guns' crews to quarters; fired one shot at the Ram then floating by us; at 4¼ P. M. commenced firing with the mortar to destroy the floating battery which was laying near the fort; at 5½ P. M. ceased firing, after throwing 66 shell. We then got under way and dropped down the river as per order.

Making a total of 493 shell and 407 barrels of powder. During the action two shots passed between our masts, also one between the main boom topping lift and mast, and another between the jibstay and foremast. Three shell exploded over us, the pieces falling all around us, but none coming on board.

Destruction of a Two-Gun Battery—Characteristic Bravery of the Rebels—An Ambuscade.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

UNITED STATES STEAMER E. B. HALE, NORTH EDISTO, S. C., Wednesday, April 30, 1862.

Our naval force here, consisting of the Crusader, Coast-survey steamer Bibb, and the gunboat Hale, have had little else to do lately but keep a close watch of the rebels, with a purpose to prevent the erection of batteries on Edisto River. Yesterday, however, the monotony was agreeably broken.

We had received information from the contrabands of the existence of a two-gun battery on the Danho River, twelve miles in the interior. Early in the morning, Lieut.-Commanding REID, of the Crusader, boarded us, and announced to Lieut.-Commanding GILLIS, of this vessel, his intention to attack the rebels and compel the evacuation of their battery. To fully understand the risk and danger attending the project, it must be remembered that the rebels were intrenched in a position of their own choice, entirely commanding the approach by water, in a narrow and circuitous channel, while we were penetrating into the very heart of the enemy's country, by a route unknown to us.

At 9 A. M. the battery was in sight. We opened on them with a 20-pounder PARROT rifle, and succeeded in eliciting a quick response. Our broadside guns were immediately brought to bear, Lieut. GILLIS himself superintending their range and elevation. In the meantime we were gradually approaching the battery under a heavy fire. After a sharp action of one hour's duration, their shot falling thick and fast around us, and when we had approached within a half mile of the earthwork, the rebels left. They made splendid time; but a decent regard for truth prevents any commendation of the gracefulness or regularity of their retreat.

Lieut. GILLIS landed, and found that the guns in position were 24-pounders, of an elegant pattern. One was found loaded and primed. The carriages were burned, the guns spiked and thrown in a ditch. Little service will they render the rebels hereafter. All the ammunition was destroyed save that portion available for our own use.

We started on our return at 6½ o'clock, P. M., and when at "Slam's Bluff," received evidence of the peculiar bravery displayed by the chivalry. They were in ambush, anxiously awaiting our approach. When opposite a dense wood in which they were concealed, and not ten rods distant, they opened fire, with a terrific shower of grape and canister, that went hustling over our decks, while the bank of the river was one sheet of flame. Yet our boys stood up bravely to their work, and gave the rebels a return fire, in earnest.

This morning we ascertained the full extent of the damage done. Their grape passed through and through the vessel, the smoke stack and steam pipe suffering somewhat. One solid shot struck the muzzle of one of our broadside guns, chipping out a piece, and producing a flaw that may damage the future usefulness of our "pet." At 10 P. M., we returned to our old anchorage, willing to submit the results for a favorable verdict. Too much credit cannot be accorded to Lieuts. Commanding REID and GILLIS. Cool and determined, with a purpose in view, and bound to execute it, this action evidences their bravery and skill. We lost not a man—none wounded.

The following are the officers of the E. B. Hale:
Lieut.-Commanding, JAMES H. GILLIS.
Paymaster, Asa C. Winter.
Chief Engineer, C. H. Harrington.
Assistant Engineer, D. Hutton.
Mates, Henry Stahl and H. Benner.
Pilot and Executive Officer, Wm. H. Bullis.

Dispatches from Commodore Dupont to the Navy Department.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 8.

The Navy Department has received dispatches from Commodore DUPONT to-day, dated Port Royal, 2d inst., giving interesting particulars of an expedition on the 29th of April, with the Hale, to capture a battery on GRUMBALL'S plantation, near the junction of the Dawho-pow-pow and South Edisto Rivers. It appears the enemy opened on the Hale when within eighteen hundred yards, and continued their fire as she wound her way to engage them at close quarters; but when the Hale reached the last bend, and was making a straight course for the battery, the rebels fled in haste. Lieut. GILLIS landed with a party of men to destroy it. The work was about three hundred and fifty yards from the river-bank, and mounted two long fine 24-pounders on excellent field-carriages. So rapid was the flight of the rebels that one of the guns was left loaded and primed. The Hale returned to her anchorage without having a man injured.

Another report details the proceedings at Bull's Bay. Lieut. NICKELS crossed the bar with the Onward on the 7th ult., and anchored within 800 yards of the light-house on Bull's

AFFAIRS IN LONDON.

The War News in England—Great Review of British Volunteers—Weakness of England—Napoleon—An Escaped Prize at Liverpool—The British in the Rio Grande—The London Times' Correspondent—Speech of Mr. Gladstone—Mexico—American Dramatic Artists in London—The Exhibition.

Correspondence of the New-York Times.

LONDON, Saturday, April 26, 1862.

London, at the close of its great Easter holiday, was thrown into a fever of excitement by the arrival of a steamer with the most important news which has been received since the great war in America began. The fall of Island No. 10 was expected. With such advantages as the North possesses in numbers, material and a navy, a place attacked on the water is a place taken. We had looked also for a movement of Gen. McCLELLAN's army toward Richmond, and were prepared for the attack on Yorktown, but we were not prepared to hear of a great battle in Northern Mississippi, with the result of 55,000 men killed, wounded and prisoners—with prisoners on both sides, and both sides claiming the victory! It is presumed, of course, that the losses are greatly exaggerated. The losses reported are incredible, even with the largest numbers who can be supposed to have been engaged. But, whatever the facts, and whatever the result of this battle—whether PRENTISS is a prisoner, or JOHNSTON killed, or BEAUREGARD wounded—it is evident enough that the war approaches its crisis, and we on this side shall wait with bated breath for every new arrival. In sight of the dread drama acting beyond the Atlantic, all European affairs are void of interest.

Easter Monday was celebrated by the British Volunteers in a grand review and sham-fight at Brighton. Lord CLYDE, an aged army officer, took command; the day was a fine one, and there were twenty thousand volunteers, in good condition, assembled on the coast opposite France. The number seems small enough, when compared with the armies of American volunteers in actual service. There is but little inclination to boast of them, and not so much confidence as there was some time ago in the efficiency of such a force. It is a mistake to embody such a force of riflemen. One-half of them should be trained as fight artillery. If there is no invasion, they are of no use. If there is an invasion, and the only one possible, it will be with a force of artillery that will scatter these corps of amateur riflemen like chaff before a hurricane. The truth is, every Government liable to have a war, and especially a defensive war, should have an army; and this army, in its reserves, should include the entire effective population. The volunteer system is unreliable. A whole nation should be a garrison, under the command of an efficient leader.

England was never so weak as at this moment. She is conscious of her weakness, too, as she never was before. The patronizing air of the French journals is gall and wormwood. The glory of her wooden walls is departed. Her old stormy navy, that has ruled the waves so long, has faded into a mist. Britannia is like a lobster that has suddenly lost her shell. The British lion, deprived of teeth and claws, crestfallen, and with his tail between his legs, growls over Sir WILLIAM's gun, his only comfort. And a strange comfort it is, since it proves that all iron-clad ships, which have cost such immense sums, are good for nothing. It was the navy of England that matched the armies of France and Russia. Now France has to-day a far more powerful navy than England, with a disparity of forces on land sufficiently obvious.

The Government is at its wits' end. They dare not stop the costly fortifications now building, and are afraid to go on. They are liable to be thrown out of power any day by a constantly increasing conservative party. Holding office by sufferance, they cannot take a step without the consent of the Opposition. PALMERSTON's last act, before the recess, was to make a desperate bid for English popularity by bullying France, in the matter of Italy. It sometimes occurs, also, to those who look coolly over the ground, that there is one portion of the British Empire, with a population of six millions, whom England dares not arm, even to resist invasion, because she fears, and perhaps knows, that, to a large majority, such an invasion would not be an altogether unwelcome event.

LOUIS NAPOLEON is not popular in England. Every man who puts his hand in his pocket to pay his income-tax, curses LOUIS NAPOLEON. He may open the markets of France to British staples and manufactures; he may come over and see the Exhibition; he may join in expeditions to China or Mexico; it matters not. He keeps up the income-tax, and he has humbled England as she has never been humbled, since the loss of her American colonies. But there is no help. French trade has been a great boon to England during the war in America. The cotton famine increases—the distress grows deeper. The only consolation is that, if it can be tided over; if England can get her cotton from India, or the new settlement commencing in North Australia, from Natal, or anywhere, she will be independent of America.

A happy little circumstance has just occurred in the arrival of a British merchant ship at Liverpool, which was taken a prize off Charleston, on suspicion of attempting to run the blockade. The Captain and two men left on board, managed to circumvent the prize crew, under a United States Lieutenant, put them in irons, and with the help of two or three sailors they were able to bribe, brought the ship to Liverpool, where the unlucky prize-officer was set at liberty. If this vessel, by attempting to run the blockade, became a lawful prize, and lost the protection of her own Government, by what process can she regain a claim to such protection? I am not very deeply versed in international law, but it strikes me that the American Minister has a good claim for the restoration of the prize, and damages for false imprisonment. The ship, it is evident, might have been again taken at any time before its arrival at Liverpool. Did the right of property in her, once fully and lawfully established, cease when she came into British waters?

It is not likely that this will lead to war, but there is a little speck that looks more like it down on the Rio Grande. A British war vessel is there with orders not to permit the blockade of that river, and to keep it open at all hazards. As cotton can readily cross the river and go out from Mexican ports, and supplies of all kinds come in by the same channel, it is an awkward leak and difficult to stop.

While we wait with breathless interest for the events which are bringing the war to its crisis and toward its close, and while we wait impatiently for the cotton and the trade that would give bread to so many thousands now on the verge of starvation; while the great question when it will end seems likely soon to be answered, that of how it will end comes up still more for discussion. The English Press, most favorable to the North, favors moderation and compromise. The most urgent of Abolitionists dread a too precipitate action. Four millions of negroes seem a great many, and they would accept for them a long apprenticeship. Those who have no longer any doubt that the South can be conquered, see difficulties in a thorough subjugation. They wonder if, whenever so thoroughly beaten, she will stay beaten. They count up the cost of a standing army to guard so large a territory, and look forward to years of guerrilla warfare, conspiracies, and outbreaks. But after all these speculations, they give it up, as well they may, as a matter quite incomprehensible to Europeans, who are becoming every day more satisfied that they cannot understand the Americans.

The return of Mr. RUSSELL, the special correspondent of the London Times, humiliated and insulted as he was by the Government at Washington, will not diminish, and probably could not much increase, the rancor of that paper. From the first outbreak of the war it has given the whole weight of its influence against the North, and in favor of the South, and it can do no more than it has done. A grievance may embitter its hostility, but it will also diminish its influence. I cannot judge of the wisdom of the general policy of the Government in regard to the Press; but, if American papers are to be restrained, there is surely no reason why Mr. RUSSELL, or the London Times, should be exempted from the general censorship. At this distance, I can see no necessity for any such restriction. There is no evidence that the Confederates have ever depended upon the Northern Press for information. If I am correctly informed, they have had no lack of other means more speedy, if not more reliable. But if the Government owes no apology to Mr. RUSSELL, it would seem that one was due to Gen. MCCLELLAN, by whose invitation he proposed to accompany the expedition.

The proclamations of the Secretary of War and the President, of thanksgivings for National victories, are considered somewhat premature. Some Union men will postpone the occasion until they hear of the results of the advance to Richmond, the attack on New-Orleans, the operations in the West, and the second naval action in Hampton Roads. Meantime the feeling of the English Government has just been declared once more—this time by Mr. GLADSTONE, in a speech in Lancashire, in which he indorses Earl RUSSELL, and expresses the opinion that the war is unwise, and conquest, if the people of the South are determined to resist, impossible. "If the blood of WASHINGTON and of the men of Virginia of his day still runs in the veins of those who inhabit the Southern States," he says, "then it is almost impossible that the military object [of the war] should be effected; and even if it were, the civil and political difficulties remaining would render that military success itself a curse and a misery to those who had achieved it." The effect of the whole speech is to give the moral sympathy of this Government in favor of the rebel States. It confirms everything I have said of the actual feeling in England, which is represented by the Government and the Press. Mr. BRIGHT's party is a very small one.

The expedition to Mexico is taking the usual course of such operations. France is the central figure of the group. Other Powers are subordinate. LOUIS NAPOLEON is the star of the political drama. England and Spain are merely accessories, and, in some cases, supernumeraries. In the Mexican affair, the English will merely secure their commercial rights. The Spanish are so unpopular as to be only in the way. The French, on the contrary, are so popular, that if they were alone, they would scarcely have any difficulty. It is decided, I believe, to establish a monarchy in Mexico, to be supported by French bayonets; and the ostensible reason is to provide a barrier to the encroachments of the United States. This supposes reunion, or that the South, establishing its independence, will attempt to carry out the programme of a new Central American Republic, which shall include the Southern States, the West Indies, and the Continent, down to the Isthmus, with New-Orleans for its capital.

There have been many dreams of such an Empire, for it could not be a Republic—certainly not a loosely-united Confederation. There would be the need of a strong central military despotism, an aristocracy of proprietors and planters, a large standing army for the poor whites, Slavery for the negroes, and something akin to Slavery for the mixed races. It is to nip in the bud such projects as this that, France has determined to establish an Austrian Archduke as King or Emperor of Mexico and ally of France. And whatever may be the event of the present war, it affords a favorable opportunity to provide against the future.

London will soon present a curious spectacle to the lovers of the drama. There will be upon its stage, in prominent positions, not less than a dozen artists, either Americans by birth or fame: PATTI and Miss KELLOGG at the Opera; BOURCICAULT, Mrs. BOURCICAULT, BROUGHAM, the FLORENCES, SOTHERN, JORDAN and JAMIESON, at different theatres. Mrs. MACREADY is giving readings with considerable success. Mr. and Mrs. HOWARD PAUL are fixtures here, in the entertainment line. Mrs. KAY BLOUNT and Mrs. LESDERNIER are at Paris. FOWLER & WELLS, after lecturing and examining heads all over the three Kingdoms, have arrived in London, and will open at Exeter Hall in a few days.

The Exhibition is about to open. A large portion of the continent of Europe is expected in London. Paris will come over en masse to visit perfide Albion. Expeditions are organized from St. Petersburgh. The pleasant feeling toward foreigners in this country was exemplified a night or two ago. Two newly-arrived Frenchmen entered a public house in Piccadilly, to inquire their way, but for politeness they first asked for a glass of beer. The John Bull who keeps the house, and hates foreigners like pizen, no sooner heard their broken English than he pitched into them, and, with the help of two waiters, landed them, bruised and bloody, on the sidewalk. The poor Frenchmen had come to the Exhibition, and were served in this way pour encourager les autres.

AFFAIRS IN PARIS.

Singular Perversity of the Secessionists—How the News of the National Successes is Received—The English and French—Letters by way of Mexico, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday, April 25, 1862.

A story is told of one of the half-deaf old soldiers of the Hotel des Invalides, who, one day when they were firing a salute from the big guns in front of the Hotel, turned to a comrade, as he faintly heard the discharge of one of the pieces, and exclaimed, "God bless you!" It is thus with our secession friends, who refuse utterly to hear the reverberation of the cannon in Tennessee, and, like the old soldier, mistake the discharge of the big guns for a sneeze They persist in proclaiming the different surrenders and evacuations in the West as strategical movements, designed for the ultimate defeat of the Nationals; and as for the battle at Pittsburgh Landing, that was only a reconnoissance en force, in which they came out and killed a great many Nationals, and then retired.

What is curious, the English Press, and the entire English nation, if we are to judge the rest by those we meet at Paris, back up these views of the Secessionists, and cry "Federal lie" at each account of a victory. The fact is, the English have set their hearts on a division of the country, so that each discharge of a National cannon goes to their very hearts, and produces as much effect on them as on the people of the South. Each step in the National advance astounds and enrages them more, for the Southerners had taught them to believe that their country was impregnable, and a glance at the map told them that they could not conquer all that territory, and, therefore, they took it for granted that the Yankees could not. This was the settled conviction of Lord JOHN RUSSELL, and this conviction formed the basis, and probably the sole motive, of his neutrality doctrine. In France, on the contrary, a very large majority of the people are pleased with the aspect of things in America, and, instead of fighting the National advance foot by foot, as do the English, they receive each National victory with pleasure, and give it its due weight in the final decision of the question at issue.

The apparently sudden resolution of the English to strongly garrison the Island of Bermuda has not escaped the attention of the French. Knowing that the American Government has remonstrated with the English Government, against the aid and comfort which are rendered to the South from this Island, the French naturally attribute to the English a fear that the Americans may attempt some bold measure against the Island, for which the English wish to be prepared. Our secession friends declare that it means intervention. The English, they say, fearing that the Federals, by mere force of numbers, may overrun the South, are going to interfere to prevent the reconstruction of the Union and the loss of the cotton crop of last year. The English themselves explain the reinforcement of Bermuda as a merely precautionary measure against the Yankees in case they subjugate the South and then turn upon them—an explanation which is probably the nearest to the truth.

For the last fortnight we hear little said about the Mexican expedition, and have been unable to ascertain what are in fact the ulterior views of the French Government on the subject. It is not probable, however, that with the disposition manifested by the Mexicans a war will be forced upon them.

The Southern people at Paris continue to receive their letters from home regularly, some by way of Mexico, some by the hand of individuals running the blockade, and some, there is reason to believe, in the bundles of foreign Consuls. But since there is no diplomacy going on between the agents of the Confederacy and foreign Governments, these letters hardly contain anything which need concern the authorities at Washington.

The Atlantic Telegraph Company, which holds the concession of a line commencing at Cape Finister, France, and passing by the Azores to Newfoundland, will probably unite with the old company which Mr. CYRUS FIELD is now reorganizing in England. This line commences on French soil, makes of the Azores a half-way house, and terminates at Newfoundland upon an island owned by the French, which gives to this line important advantages over the old one, since the latter commenced and terminated on English soil. It seems that the American Government ought rather to lend its sympathy and protection to the French-American line.

The hull of the large, first-class American ship Jacob Horton, which was wrecked a few months ago on the French coast, has just been raised and sold for 15,000 francs. It is said to be the largest merchant ship that ever the entered port of Cherbourg.

Two American marriages have lately taken place at the American Legation in this city. Mr. DE SILVER, of New-York, till lately engaged in trade in China, was married to a young French lady, and Miss EMMA FRANCE, of Baltimore, married the young Baron VON LEUTRUM ERTRINGEN, of Austria. MALAKOFF.

Some Errors of Mr. Gladstone's Speech.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Mr. GLADSTONE, in his speech at Manchester, so mistakes the causes of the alienation of our good feeling from Great Britain, that I have thought it worth the trouble of making the statement below, which please publish. I select his prominent mistakes in the order in which they were spoken.

Mr. GLADSTONE says: "There was a demand by the public voice in America, at the outset of this war, for what was called sympathy." This I deny. We did not ask for their sympathy; but we did hope—to use the language of an eminent clergyman—to have been spared their insults, as has been shown by LINDSAY, GREGORY, Times RUSSELL, &c.

Again he says: "We have no faith in the propagation of free institutions at the point of the sword." This conveys the idea that the loyal men of the country, who are upholding the laws and institutions of their land—laws made by the very rebels we are now fighting—are endeavoring to force new institutions on the rebels by the sword; when the truth is that we are for preserving what we have. The loyal men of the country never accepted the issue of battle until (we use the words of another) "the insulted flag of the country was slapped into our faces." Then the latent feeling of love and loyalty to our flag and country was aroused to defend and vindicate their honor.

He indorses the statement of Lord JOHN RUSSELL, "that this was a struggle on one side for supremacy, and on the other for independence." That is another proof of Mr. G.'s unfairness. As I have said above, we are only fighting to restore order and law, as it is practiced on ourselves.

His allusion to the union with Scotland (he does not speak of that with Ireland) has no analogy to our Union, as we used neither force or fraud to effect ours; it was an entirely free and voluntary choice by the people at large.

If we are sensitive, it is because we feel that our domestic affairs are impertinently intermeddled with. Even our money matters are interfered with by the English Press and Parliament. When we undertake to make a Tariff for revenue, John Bull steps in and calls it a hostile Tariff, and wants one to suit their views. We are great producers of tobacco and hops, both articles of great taxation in England. We never have complained, nor have we a right to, of the action of England on those articles.

Would it not be better for England not to press their offensive opinions on us? Her enormous debt was caused by her meddling in her neighbors' domestic matters. The lesson was expensive. She should profit by it. B.

THE MAY ANNIVERSARIES.

FRIDAY.

Morning, 10 o'clock—American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.
Evening—Five Points House of Industry.

American Bible Society.

The Forty-sixth Anniversary of the American Bible Society took place yesterday morning at Irving Hall. A very large audience was present. Hon. HENAN LINCOLN presided, and on the platform were a number of gentlemen of various denominations, prominent in the religious world. Among these were Rev. Drs. Spring, Ferris, Tyng, Anderson and Cox, Hon. Mr. Newton, Thomas Cock, M. D., Hon. Luther Bradish, Wm. P. Crosby, Esq., and Francis Hall.

After prayer by Rev. Dr. POTTS, the Chairman made an interesting address, noticing the sad bereavements of the Society. He mentioned, in terms of praise and honor, the names of THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN, Judge MCLEAN, Gov. BRIGGS, of Massachusetts, Chief Justice WILLIAMS, of Connecticut, GEORGE DOUGLAS, Esq., and Mr. HOLDEN, one of the Managers.

The Treasurer's Report was read by HENRY FISHER, Esq., and the Managers report by Dr. HOLDICH. The following are the principal items of interest:

In course of the year have been removed by death the following respected and beloved associates: HORACE HOLDEN, Esq., a Manager; Hon. JOHN M'LEAN and Hon. DOUGLAS, Esq., Vice-Presidents; and Hon. THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN, President. Twenty-seven new Auxiliaries have been recognized. The receipts of the year were $378,131 81, of which $178,901 23 were for books sold. Of Life Directors fifty-two were made during the year, and of Life Members, 1,057. Gratuitous issues have amounted to $51,480 67. Books printed at the Bible House, 1,069,919. Books issued, 1,099,843. The aggregate since the formation of the Society is 16,100,400. Of the Bible Society Record, 421,316 have been issued during the year. Not less than 650,000 books have been distributed in the army and navy of the United States, besides a large number in hospitals, and among prisoners of war. Among the new books published are Minion Bible, square 16mo., with references, suitable for family use; Pearl Bible, square 18mo., with references; Modern Armenian New Testament, 32mo., with references; New Testament, in Cherokee; Book of Psalms, and also the Proverbs, in Spanish, 18mo.; Gospel of John, (English,) small pica, 24mo.; Gospel of Mark, in the Benga tongue, (African;) a Minion Bible, without references, square 16mo., for church pews, and a Pearl Bible, square 16mo., will soon be issued. The third volume of the Reprint of Reports, beginning with 1850, is in progress. Twenty-two agents have been employed during the year, one of whom is in Oregon, one in California, and one in Turkey. Grants of money have been made for publishing and circulating the Scriptures in South America, Germany, Italy, Turkey, Syria, India and Africa, to the amount of $28,800, aside from foreign works printed at the Bible House, New-York.

The reports were adopted, on motion of Dr. SPRING. The following resolutions were then respectively debated:

1. Resolved, That the report, an abstract of which has been read, be published and circulated under the direction of the Managers.

2. Resolved, That the work of this Society and its branches the past year, in supplying the army and navy with the Scriptures, is a work which commends itself to the prayerful regard and generous support of every Christian and patriot.

3. Resolved, That the coöperation of Christians of different names, for half a century, in circulating a common Bible, without note or comment, has been happy in all its bearings, and should be universally encouraged.

4. Resolved, That the Bible is adapted to men in all the conditions of life, and particularly to those in affliction, and should have a universal circulation among all families and nations.

5. Resolved, That the spirit of the age and the condition of the country demand renewed and increased efforts in the work of Bible distribution.

6. Resolved, That the movements of Divine Providence, the last fifty years, in opening the way for the circulation of the Scriptures in Papal, Mahometan and Pagan countries should receive more of the attention and liberality of the Christian public than has hitherto been received.

The resolutions were sustained by the following speakers: Rev. Dr. TAYLOR, Philadelphia; Rev. Mr. KENNEDAY, Elizabeth, N. J.; Rev. Mr. STUDLEY, New-Bedford, Mass.; Rev. Dr. RANDALL, Boston, and adopted seriatim.

At the business meeting of the morning, the existing managers of the Society were reëlected, and resolutions offered by LUTHER BRADISH, with reference to the death of Hon. THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN, were adopted.

The Deaf and Dumb Asylum Anniversary.

Irving Hall was crowded yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of the Annual Anniversary and Exhibition of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum. A number of the pupils, under the direction of the Messrs. PEET, exhibited the proficiency they have attained in the institution. Of the 310 pupils in the institution, there were 42 present—one class of eight years' standing, and the other of eight months. BENJAMIN R. WINTHROP, Esq., one of the Directors, presided, and Dr. HARVEY P. PEET, the Superintendent, prefaced the exercises with a brief address.

The various proficiencies of the pupils were then exhibited seriatim. Some of the smaller boys gave illustrations of hope, fear, anger, hate, learning, apprehension, listening, &c., in the sign language. Three of the boys gave an exhibition in concert, winding up with a representation of soldiers and firing cannon. Miss M. L. GOODRICH and several other of the female pupils gave readings of poetical compositions. Four of the highest class, Misses IDA MONTGOMERY and EUGENIE BASSER, and WILLIAM HUBBARD and DAVID R. TILLINGHAST underwent a severe ordeal at the blackboard. They were called upon to write their names, to define and illustrate syllogisms, to give their opinions of war, patriotism, high treason, secession and of our Generals. They all wrote impromptu compositions on the topics suggested, full of literary excellence, as well as of profound thought. They were all well read in the current topics of the day, as well as upon historical and literary subjects. The proficiency of all the pupils was a subject of general praise, and the entire exhibition drew forth the most enthusiastic applause from the audience.

Among those on the platform were Dr. ADAMS, P. M. WETMORE, CYRUS W. FIELD and others, who take a deep interest in the institution, and are connected with its management. The beautiful and efficacious system of the sign language has rarely been exhibited to greater advantage.

The American and Foreign Christian Union.

The Thirteenth Anniversary of the American and Foreign Christian Union was held on Tuesday morning, at Irving Hall. The Rev. Dr. DE WITT was called upon to preside. After the preliminary exercises, the annual report and the Treasurer's statement were read; from which it appears that the receipts of the Society during the past year, from voluntary contributions, collections, and legacies, exceeded the sum of $55,000. The expenditures were nearly equal to the receipts. The society has lost, during the past year, some of its warmest and most valued friends, among whom mention is made of the Hon. THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN, Chief Justice WILLIAMS, and ELISHA TAYLOR, Esq. Since the last annual report, the Society has employed twenty-one missionaries in the Home Department including two women whose business it has been to distribute bibles. The Committee have in the last year established several new missions in New Granada, Brazil and Chili. The missions established by this Society in Europe, have continued in a very prosperous condition. In France, the Committee have made appropriations to the Central Society for Evangelization, the Evangelical Society of France, and the Evangelical Church of Lyons. These three societies employ more than 180 missionaries, not including the students in Theology.

Rev. Dr. PARKER read a series of resolutions for the consideration of, and the adoption by, the Society. The resolutions were unanimously adopted, after having been ably and eloquently discussed by Rev. Dr. Todd, of Pittsfield, Mass.; Rev. Dr. McCron, of the First Lutheran Church in Baltimore, and the Rev. Drs. Parker and Crooks, of this City. Dr. CROOKS, in his address, paid a highly and heartfelt compliment to Rev. Dr. MCCLINTOCK, who, for the last year, has officiated as Pastor of the English Chapel in Paris. The reverend gentleman said that Dr. MCCLINTOCK was not only a true Christian minister, but he was more—he was a true-hearted American patriot. He had taken a very bold and decided stand in the City of Paris on the side of the American Union, and to his efforts and eloquence, more than to any other one American in Europe, did we owe a debt of gratitude for the good which had been effected by setting the masses of the Old World right upon the great questions which, for the last year, have been agitating this country. Some months since Dr. MCCLINTOCK attended a very large and important religious Anniversary in London. Exeter Hall was crowded with learned and influential divines from all parts of Europe. Dr. McC. arose in that assembly, and for an hour spoke earnestly and eloquently upon the subject of American affairs, during which time he arraigned the London Times, and charged upon it the crimes of venality and falsehood, in language so bold that many of his own friends were surprised and even dismayed at this exhibition of moral courage, while at the same time they could not avoid applauding the sentiments.

Rev. Dr. PARKER stated that though the financial condition of the Society was not so good as in times of peace, yet they all had reason to be thankful that they were prospering so well. Hitherto they had received much valuable material aid from friends at the South, but he thanked God that the time was not far distant when this assistance would be renewed. He had lately received a letter from a very old and valued lady friend of this organization, residing in one of the rebel States, in which she stated that she had prayed for the Union cause since the rebellion broke out. She had hung out the Stars and Stripes of her native country from her chamber window when she was the only one in the town who dared to do so. The rebel commander of the forces in the vicinity having heard of her temerity, sent an Orderly for the flag. The old lady (90 years of age) made reply, that she kept a loaded musket in her bedchamber, and she would shoot the first man who attempted to take down her flag; but, said she, "If you want it, come and take it."

At the conclusion of the addresses, the assembly all united in singing "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow," &c.; and the Reverend President dismissed the congregation with the benediction.

Howard Mission and Home for Little Wanderers.

The Academy of Music was crowded to its very utmost capacity on Tuesday evening, on the occasion of the anniversary exercises of the "Howard Mission and Home for Little Wanderers," located at No. 26 New Bowery, when 200 performers made their first appearance on the stage of that temple of music. The occasion was one of unusual interest, and the exercises appropriate. The object of the Society, it is well known, is to provide homes for little wanderers, who are found running in the streets uncared for, or who are brought there for the purpose of having them sent to the Far West, where there is no trouble in finding good and permanent homes for them. From the annual report, a brief abstract of which is appended, it will be seen that the Society has accomplished much good, and deserves the encouragement and aid of all philanthropists.

The honored and honorable JOSEPH HOXIE presided, and made one of his characteristic addresses, combining humor, pathos and patriotism in equal quantities, the American flag, which was planted on the stage, affording the necessary stimulus. Addresses were made by Rev. Messrs. HAGUE and WILLETS and MATHEW HALE SMITH, the latter of whom was greeted with repeated and irresistible bursts of applause. All of the speakers, while they were sufficiently patriotic, did not forget the great object of their meeting, which was to invite attention to the cause in which they were embarked, and which was worthy encouragement, aid and sympathy. The children, who were neatly dressed, filled up the rear of the stage, and were as happy as if they had never known a care, and enlivened the intervals between the addresses with hymns and patriotic songs, under the leadership of Mr. T. E. RAKINS, of the Normal Musical Academy. From the annual report of the operations of the Society, the following facts are gleaned:

More than 600 children have been received during the last few months, who were washed, fed, clothed, and taught. Over 150 have been placed in carefully selected homes—many of them in Kansas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan and Ohio. They have sent seven companies West. More than 200 families have been assisted. More than 100 boxes, any many packages of clothes, shoes, and bedding—more than 50 barrels of cornmeal—several barrels of hominy and cracked wheat—several barrels of pork and beef—more than 50 barrels of potatoes, 15 to 20 tubs of butter, and numerous other things, have been most economically used in the Mission, or distributed among the poor. Thinking it more judicious to give bread than flour to the poor, they arranged with Messrs. HECKER & BROTHER, ISAAC HALL, and the Aerated Bread Bakery, to take the flour at the highest market price, and pay them in bread, at a large discount. As the work has increased, they have increased the number of laborers. During a part of the time they have employed four teachers and four visitors, in addition to the Matron, Janitor, and three servants. The claims upon the charity and labors of the Board have so increased, and the public sympathy and support have been so generously extended, that they have taken the large house, No. 26 New Bowery, running through to James-street, which will accommodate 300 persons with comfortable and well-ventilated rooms, which all interested in the cause are invited to examine.

New-York Sunday School Union.

The Sunday Schools connected with this Association—222 in number—held their anniversaries on Tuesday, and, as usual, they were, for many reasons that might be named, the most pleasant of all the many anniversaries. They were all held at the same hour, 2½ P. M., and at the following churches: Irving Hall, (Mission Schools,) Oliver-street Baptist Church, Allen-street Presbyterian Church, Sixth-street Baptist Church, Stanton-street Baptist Church, Central Presbyterian Church, Washington-square Reformed Dutch Church, Mercer-street Presbyterian Church, Laight-street Baptist Church, Second-avenue Baptist Tabernacle, St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Sixteenth-street Baptist Church, West Twenty-third-street Presbyterian Church, North Presbyterian Church, Madison-avenue Presbyterian Church, Free Will Baptist Church, in Twenty-eighth-street, and Forty-second-street Presbyterian Church. The exercises were much the same in all, and consisted o singing by the children and addresses. Among the speakers at the various churches were Rev. S. H. Tyng, Jr., Rev. Alonzo R. Thompson, Rev. B. W. Chidlaw, Rev. N. Heston, Rev. I. M. Sprague, Rev. Dr. Newell, Rev. W. Sanderson, Rev. W. Hiscox, Rev. Mr. Zabriskie, Rev. W. Lowry, Rev. Mr. Hoaton, Rev. Dr. Hatfield, Rev. Chas. Parker, of Kansas; Rev. Dr. Adams, Rev. Mr. Duryea, H. C. Trumbull, Wm. E. Dodge, W. Husbrouck, H. A. Mott, S. M. Ostrander, and others. In the evening the officers and patrons of the Union held a meeting at Irving Hall, at which Chancellor FERRIS, the President of the Union, presided—being the forty-sixth anniversary of the Association. Addresses were delivered by Dr. FERRIS, by Rev. NEWTON HESTON, by Rev. Mr. CHILDLAW, and by Hon. THEODORE, Esq. The annual report of the Union was read by the Corresponding Secretary, J. N. MCELLIGOTT, Esq., from which we gather the following statistics: Number of schools connected with the Union, 222; additions during the year, 0; number of scholars registered, 48,000; whole number taught during the year, 70,000; number of scholars, 5,500; number of teachers in infant classes, 1,300; in Bible classes, 4,000; colored children in the Union, 1,200; total volumes in the libraries, 92,000; contributions from the scholars during the year for missionary and charitable purposes, $16,000; number of conversions reported from 16 schools, 209. The Union, as is generally known, comprises most of the Sunday Schools in this City and Brooklyn belonging to nearly all the different denominations except the Catholics, Episcopalians, Methodists and Universalists.

National Typographical Union.

SECOND DAY.

The Convention convened Tuesday morning, at 10 o'clock, in the Chamber of the Board of Councilmen, President FARQUHER, of Chicago, in the Chair, and a quorum present. The Convention listened to an address from the presiding officer, in which he briefly alluded to the progress made by the Typographical Union, which, not even the hated rebellion of the South had obstructed, and predicted greater success in the future than any enjoyed in the past. The Secretary read his annual report, in which he says that subordinate Unions have been formed and charters approved in several localities in the States, but in consequence of the very depressed state of the trade a moderate progression in this respect is chronicled. He had received no response to the letters sent to the Typographical Societies in the Provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia and New-Brunswick, with a view of bringing them under the jurisdiction of the National Union, in accordance with the resolution of the Nashville Convention of 1860. Financially, the Union has not suffered. The receipts were $662 87, and expenditures $598 33, leaving a balance on hand of $74 54. Of the per capita tax received for 1860, $1 75 was paid from Grand Rapids, $27 from Baltimore, $39 from San Francisco, and $8 25 from Cleveland; total, $75. Of the per centag tax, $469 81 was received from 33 subordinate organizations. The report was adopted. The Convention then proceeded to the election of officers for the ensuing year, with the following result: President, John M. Farquher, of Chicago; First Vice-President, W. A. Montgomery, of Boston; Second Vice-President, Jas. H. Walker, of Detroit; Treasurer and Recording Secretary, Thomas J. Walsh, of the New-York TIMES; Corresponding Secretary, Theo. Nagle, of St. Louis. The President announced the following Standing Committees. On Appeals—Messrs. Briggs, Keech, Cowles, Amsbury, Nagle. On Finance—Messrs. Herrick, O'Connor, Wallace, Adams, Oakley. On Subordinate Unions—Messrs. Choate, Squire, D. W. Flynn, Kneeland, Stump. On Unfinished Business—Messrs. Smith, McDonald, F. M. Flynn. On New Business—Messrs. Slawson, Browne, Vought, Santee, Gray. On Returns—Messrs. Gorman, Kelvey, Morris, Bailey, Eaton. Some discussion ensued upon the propriety of retaining the name of George McKay Luken, of Memphis, on the permanent roll, which it was finally decided should be done. An invitation to visit the Public Charities of the City, to-day, at 2½ o'clock P. M., and attend a printers' reception this evening, at the New-York Typographical Rooms, was accepted. The Committee on Unfinished Business reported in favor of diminishing the per capita tax from 15 cents to 10 cents, to apply to all the rolls of Unions. A proposition to establish the principle of paying 7 per cent. on all receipts, gave scope for considerable debate, which resulted in the postponement of the Committee's proposition for consideration to-day.

THIRD DAY.

The Convention met on Wednesday at the City Hall, President FARQUHER in the Chair, and a quorum present. A resolution diminishing the per capita tax from fifteen to ten cents, applicable to subordinate Unions, was laid over for consideration next year, owing to the absence of Southern representatives. A resolution ordering the issue of cards of membership was laid on the table, a general rule covering the matter. A resolution, deprecating the growing practice of féteing the National Union, which originated with the New-Orleans session, was adopted—the New-York delegation voting in the negative. At 2½, the Convention, in charge of the Reception Committee, visited the public charitable institutions on Randall's and Blackwell's Island. In the evening, at 8 o'clock, a public reception of the National Union, by the Typographical Society, took place at the latter's rooms, Chambers-street. Addresses were made by Hon. HORACE GREELEY, JOHN M. FARQUHER, Esq., of Chicago, and other gentlemen connected with the craft, and the Union Quartette Club sang several patriotic airs. To-day the Convention will visit Bay Ridge, Long Island.

FOURTH DAY.

The Convention held a brief session at the City Hall, yesterday morning, President FARQUHER in the Chair. A resolution fixing upon Cleveland, Ohio, for the Convention of 1863, was adopted. The Committee having in charge the consideration of the President's Address, presented the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the postponement of the National Union Session of 1861 was unconstitutional; that while this body does not entertain a doubt of the pure motives of its officers who caused said postponement, it cannot pass the matter without expressing its disapprobation of it, in order that in future it may not be repeated; that the presiding officer is directed to communicate with Southern Unions of seceded States that the National body still regards them as members thereof, and assuring them of our continued good will and fellowship, and urging upon them to maintain their former relation with the National Typographical Union.

After the transaction of some ordinary business, the Convention adjourned, and at 2½ o'clock proceeded in five four-horse stages to Bay Side, L. I., where they spent the remainder of the day in festivities. The Convention will adjourn sine die to-day.

American Tract Society.

THIRTY-SEVENTH ANNIVERSARY.—SUMMARY OF THE SOCIETY'S OPERATIONS—ELECTION OF OFFICERS—ANNIVERSARY ADDRESSES.

The Thirty-seventh Anniversary of the American Tract Society was celebrated Wednesday morning, at Irving Hall. A large audience was present. The proceedings commenced with prayer by Rev. Dr. FERRIS.

The results of the Society's operations, during the past year, were then set forth in a statement by Rev. Dr. DEWITT, Chairman of the Executive Committee, the reading of the Treasurer's Report by MOSES ALLEN, Esq., and Abstract of the Annual Report by Secretaries HALLOCK and EASTMAN.

On motion of Dr. MAGIE, Messrs. A. R. WETMORE, A. P. LINCOLN, and Dr. O. BRONSON were appointed a Committee to nominate a President of the Society. The Committee, after a moment's deliberation, unanimously nominated the first Vice President, Rt. Rev. CHARLES P. MCILVAINE, Bishop of Ohio, who was on motion, unanimously elected President of the Society.

On motion of Rev. Dr. MAGIE, the entire list of officers, including Vice-Presidents, Secretaries, Treasurer, Auditors and 36 Directors now in office, were elected for the ensuing year viva voce. Rev. W. W. RAND was elected assistant Secretary in place of Bishop MEAD, deceased.

The Society then elected by ballot the Publishing Committee, Distribution Committee and Finance Committee. The following ticket receiving 74 votes out of 78:

Publishing Committee—Rev. David Magie, D. D., Elizabeth, N. J.; Rev. William R. Williams, D. D.; Rev. William Adams, D. D; Rev. Benjamin C. Cutler, D. D.; Rev. Nehemiah Adams, D. D., Boston, Mass.; Rev. Thomas DeWitt, D. D.

Distributing Committee—William Forrest, Alfred S. Barnes, Samuel S. Constant, Dr. William N. Blakeman, Henry P. Marshal.

Finance Committee—Richard T. Haines, Moses Allen, Thomas C. Doremus, Richard S. Fellows, Geo. N. Titus, Esq., Oliver E. Wood.

The regular exercises of the anniversary then proceeded by the reading of the report by one of the Secretaries, Dr. STEVENSON. The following abstract of all the reports read gives a list of

SUMMARY RESULTS OF THE YEAR.

The report pays a tribute of respect to the memory of the Society's late President, Chief-Justice THOMAS S. WILLIAMS, of Connecticut, who died in December, Hon. THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN, who was six years President of the Society, and died in April, and Right Rev. WILLIAM MEADE, D. D., Bishop of Virginia, one of the oldest Vice-Presidents, who died in March.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.—New royal octavo edition of the "Family Bible" with brief Notes and Instructions, Maps, Chronological Index, Synopsis of the Harmony, etc. "The Enormity of the Slave-Trade, and the Duty of seeking the Moral and Spiritual Elevation of the Colored Race;" in speeches of WILBERFORCE and FOX, and CLARKSON's Summary View; action of the Presbyterian General Assembly 1818; Report of Committee of the Synod of Kentucky, including a plan for gradual emancip

the military strategy of our Generals; but he wanted to see them have brains as well as swords. McCLELLAN and HALLECK knew how to fight; but would they shoot Slavery? No. Ask Sigel, [applause,] or Hunter, or Banks, or Fremont, [applause,] and they would reply, Yes, and glad of the chance. [Applause.] What was the use of shooting Jeff. Davies when Slavery could make a thousand Jeff. Davises out of New-York. [Applause.] The way was to shoot Slavery. [Applause.] He wished we could roll LINCOLN and STANTON into one and overshadow them with the noble spirit of FREMONT. [Great applause.] Then we would have a Government that would float the ship of State into a calm harbor in less than half-a-dozen of years. [Applause.] We had already conquered one thing at Pittsburgh and Yorktown—the right to finish the war without foreign interference. [Applause.] England and France had learned to respect our success. He believed that seventy years hence would see this a united country, and a man could take the Declaration of Independence in his hand and go to any part of the country, protected by the ægis of our flag. That flag could protect us anywhere, except in the thirteen Slave States. That flag was no more protection than a piece of bunting for a Northern man. [Applause.] We should demand of Mr. LINCOLN that, when South Carolina put a sword in his hand, he should use it in the name of justice and God. [Great applause.]

There were loud calls for GARRISON, and after vainly endeavoring to keep back, Mr. GARRISON came forward and said, that he supposed he was called for that it might be seen that he was not a hair-brained fanatic. [Laughter.] He and his coadjutors fought as well for the emancipation and elevation of the white as of the black, for humanity and justice, and the will of God. He illustrated how a man who sold oil must necessarily be an Abolitionist, because the system of Slavery prevented him from selling oil to four millions of people, who would otherwise be customers. The slaves had no oil and no lamps. [Laughter and applause.]

The meeting closed with a song from the HUTCHINSONS.

American Female Guardian Society.

The Anniversary of this well-known Institution was held on Wednesday in the Chapel of the "Home for the Friendless," on Thirtieth-street, near Madison-avenue. The regular annual business meeting was held in the morning, when, after reading the Treasurer's report, (published in the TIMES, of Monday,) the election of officers was gone into, resulting in the re-election of Mrs. C. W. HAWKINS as President, Mesdames WM. OSBORNE, S. J. GOODENOUGH and Mrs. Dr. RANNEY as Recording and Corresponding Secretaries, and Mrs. S. A. STONE as Treasurer.

In the afternoon the regular anniversary exercises were held in the Chapel, the children from the three other industrial schools in charge of the ladies, taking part. The occasion was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. CHICKERING, of Portland, Maine, who also addressed the children and audience in a feeling and appropriate manner. The remainder of the afternoon was devoted to dialogues, singing, recitations, &c., by the children, giving great satisfaction to the large audience, and showing that the children had been well and carefully trained. At the close of the exercises, the children were bountifully supplied with refreshments and separated in high spirits, after a really delightful afternoon.

The American Tract Society of Boston.

The Forty-eighth Anniversary of the American Tract Society of Boston was held on Wednesday afternoon, at the Academy of Music. The opening address was delivered by Rev. S. H. TYNG, President of the Society. Addresses were also delivered by Rev. T. L. CUYLER and Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER. During the past year the receipts of the Society have been $68,054 72, exceeding those of the year preceding by nearly $14,000, and about $9,000 greater than any year since its organization. The expenditures of the year have been $88,115 77. The amount of donations specifically designated for the benefit of soldiers has been $17,793 77, and there has been disbursed in their behalf the sum of $22,196 89. The Secretaries report that "the general condition and prospects of this Society are highly encouraging. The list of its publications, though by no means equal to its necessities, is now sufficient to give it a large business, and is of such a character as to gain for it the confidence and favor of the Christian public. The demands for them are increasing, and from a very wide range of patronage in foreign countries, as well as at home. Several thousand dollars worth have been ordered from Australia and other parts of the British Colonies, and from England itself."

American Home Missionary Society.

The thirty-ninth Adversary of the American Home Missionary Society was celebrated at Irving Hall Wednesday evening, Rev. Dr. PETERS in chair. Prayer was offered up by Rev. Dr. ANDERSON. Rev. CHARLES R. ROBERTS, the secretary, then read the annual report which exhibited a favorable state of the Society's missionary progress and pecuniary prosperity. The receipts from various sources for the year have been $163,852.51; expenditures $158,330,33. There is a balance in the Treasury of $7,248,34. After the reading of the Report, addresses were made by Rev. F. McGOWN and Rev. Dr. STONE. The proceedings closed with the usual election of officers

American Temperance Union.

This Society held its twenty-fifth annual meeting Wednesday evening, in Dr. CHEEVER's Church, Union-square. In the absence of Gov. BUCKINGHAM, of Connecticut, Rev. Dr. TYNG, President of the Society, occupied the Chair. Dr. MARSH, the Secretary, read the report, from which it appeared that the Society has distributed a quarter of a million of tracts broadcast throughout the army, navy and hospitals; to enable them to do which, they had received, by way of public and private contributions, $1,373 75. The report states that laws prohibiting the traffic in liquors are observed in the rural districts, but have proved a failure here in the City; and it blames the Legislature for neglecting to refer a prohibitory amendment of the Constitution to the people. Resolutions of respect to the memory of Gov. BRIGGS, of Massachusetts; Chief Justice WILLIAMS, of Connecticut, and Hon. THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN, of New-Jersey, were then passed. Addresses were subsequently made by JAMES A. BRIGGS, Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER and others.

Universalist Sunday Schools.

The Sunday Schools connected with the six Universalist Churches in this City, held their anniversary on Wednesday afternoon at Rev. Dr. CHAPIN's Church in Broadway. Several hundred children were in attendance, who, together with their parents, friends and teachers, who joined in the celebration, completely filled the large church. The Stars and Stripes were unfurled in front of the pulpit, and on either side were arranged the beautiful silk banners of the children, giving a very ornamental appearance to that end of the church. The exercises were of the usual character. Several songs and hymns were sung by the children, the concluding one being the "Star-spangled Banner," in which the whole audience joined. Appropriate addresses were made by Rev. MOSES BALLOU, Rev. Mr. CRAVENS, Rev. Mr. BROOKS, and Rev. Mr. FLANDERS.

Supplementary Proceedings—Attachment for Refusing to Testify Therein.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.
Before Justice Clerke.

The Citizens' Bank of Waterbury vs. Henry Coggill et al.—The plaintiffs are judgment creditors of the defendant Coggill, and examined Frederick W. Coggill under proceedings supplementary to execution. Plaintiffs alleged that Frederick W. Coggill stated that the firm of C. J. & F. W. Coggill held property of the defendant as security for loans to him, of greater nominal, though not greater actual value, than such loans, and that he could not tell within $10,000 the amount of the loans, without looking at the books of the firm. The plaintiffs also alleged that Coggill had obtained several adjournments of his examination, stating that his book-keeper had not yet had time to make up a statement thereof, and promising to have the statement prepared, and that he now refused to furnish such statement. Upon these allegations plaintiffs moved that the witness be attached for contempt of Court for refusing to render the statement.

The Court ordered that an attachment issue, unless the witness produced a sworn statement, copied from his books, of everything in relation to the defendants' indebtedness to him, and of the securities and their value.

Wm. E. Curtis and J. S. Stearns for motion; E. S. Van Winkle, opposed.

The Services of a Nurse—All About a Claim Therefor.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.
Before Justice Barbour.

Owen J. Lakeman vs. Smith Barker et al., Executors, &c., of Samuel Storm.—This was an action to recover the sum of $1500, for work, labor and services performed by one Mary E. Storm, a daughter-in-law of Samuel Storm, as a nurse during the testator's last sickness. The plaintiff brings this action as the assignee of Mary E. Storm. The defence set up was, that the husband of Mary E. Storm rented a house of the testator, and that her work and labor was a consideration for the rent.

It was also claimed by the defendants that certain lands in Brooklyn were conveyed to the husband of Mrs. Storm by the testator, and that only four days prior to his death, by a codicil to his will, he directed that a mortgage upon said property be paid, and that this was done by way of compensation to Mrs. Storm for her services.

Case still on.

D. D. Field for plaintiff; J. W. Gerard for defendants.

Disagreed.

COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM.
Before Judge Daly.

Wm. C. Walker et al. vs. Henry Ball et al.—This case was stated in the TIMES of the 7th. The plaintiffs sued as assignees of one Alexander Maxwell, for money claimed to be due from the defendants for building the marble-work of their store at the corner of Prince-street and Broadway.

The defence was that the defendants were to have $50 per day, after a certain date, for every day that should elapse before the completion of the work; and that the contractor was to have $50 per day for as many days as the work was completed prior to that certain date. The defendants alleged that the work was not done for 150 days after the time so fixed, and set up the amount to be computed at $50 per day for that time, as a counter claim.

The jury now disagreed and were discharged.

The University Law Class Admitted to the Bar.

SUPREME COURT—GENERAL TERM.
Before Justices Ingraham, Leonard and Barnard.

On motion of Professor Wm. B. Wedgewood, of the Law Department of the New-York University, the students of that class were now admitted to practice upon taking the usual oath and signing the roll.

Court of General Sessions.

In this Court, yesterday, before Judge McCUNN, John Sullivan was tried for grand larceny, and acquitted.

John Carey pleaded guilty to forgery in the fourth degree, (passing counterfeit money,) and was remanded for sentence.

John Resseique pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, and was sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year.

John Paris, an Italian, pleaded guilty to defrauding two of his countrymen out of money, by means of false passenger tickets, and was remanded for sentence.

Decisions.

SUPERIOR COURT—SPECIAL TERM.
Before Justice Moncrief.

Schuyler vs. Morris.—The material allegations and averments in the complaint being denied by the defendant, the application by the plaintiff for an injunction denied, with $7 costs.

THURSDAY, May 8—P. M.

The process of converting United States Notes, of lawful tender, into the Public Stock of Feb. 25, 1862, bearing 6 ₩ cent. interest, made payable 20 years after date, but redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after 5 years, was inaugurated at the United States Treasury in this City to-day. The first applicants for such conversion were Messrs. LIVERMORE, CLEWS & Co., of Wall-street, for $50,000. They were immediately followed by five or six other applicants, for various sums, including one or two City Bank officers. The whole sum taken up to-day is $132,000. The process will doubtless go on with the increasing ease in the Money market, and but little delay, we understand, will be incurred in having the Coupon Bonds or Registered Certificates returned from Washington. After a short time the prepared Bonds and Certificates will probably be left with the Treasury, to avoid delay altogether. As the interest upon this portion of the Public Debt, as well as all other issues, is payable in Gold, the applicants will understand that the accrued interest since May 1, from which the Stock will bear date, to the time of conversion, must also be paid in Gold. The following are the sections of the Act of Feb. 25, authorizing these conversions:

AN ACT to authorize the issue of United States Notes, and for the redemption or funding thereof, and for funding the floating debt of the United States.

Be it enacted, by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to issue, on the credit of the United States, $150,000,000 of United States Notes, not bearing interest, payable to bearer at the Treasury of the United States, and of such denominations as he may deem expedient, not less than $5 each; Provided, however, that fifty millions of said Notes shall be in lieu of the Demand Treasury Notes authorized to be issued by the Act of July 17, 1861, which said Demand Notes shall be taken up as rapidly as practicable, and the Notes herein provided for substituted for them. And further Provided, That the amount of the two kinds of Notes together shall at no time exceed the sum of $150,000,000, and such Notes herein authorized shall be receivable in payment of all taxes, internal duties, excises, debts and demands of every kind due to the United States, except duties on imports, and of all claims and demands against the United States of every kind whatsoever, except for interest upon bonds and notes, which shall be paid in coin, and shall also be lawful money and a legal tender in payment of all debts, public and private, within the United States, except duties on imports and interest as aforesaid. And any holders of said United States notes, depositing any sum not less than $50, or some multiple of $50, with the Treasurer of the United States, or either of the Assistant Treasurers, shall receive in exchange therefor duplicate certificates of deposit, one of which may be transmitted to the Secretary of the Treasury, who shall thereupon issue to the holder an equal amount of bonds of the United States, coupon or registered, as may by said holder be desired, bearing interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and redeemable at the pleasure of the Government after five years, and payable twenty years from the date thereof. And such United States notes shall be received the same as coin, at their par value, in payment for any loans that may be hereafter sold or negotiated by the Secretary, and may be reissued from time to time as the exigencies of the public interests shall require.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to fund the Treasury Notes and floating debt of the United States, he is hereby authorized to issue, on the credit of the United States, coupon bonds, or registered bonds to an amount not exceeding $500,000,000, redeemable at the pleasure of the United States after five years, and payable twenty years from date, and bearing interest at the rate of six per centum per annum, payable semi-annually. And the bonds herein authorized shall be of such denominations not less than $50, as may be determined upon by the Secretary of the Treasury. And the Secretary of the Treasury may dispose of such bonds at any time, at the market value thereof, for the coin of the United States, or for any of the Treasury notes that have been or may hereafter be issued under any former Act of Congress, or for any United States notes that may be issued under the provisions of this Act: and all stocks, bonds, and other securities of the United States held by individuals, corporations or associations, within the United States, shall be exempt from taxation by or under State authority.

The Stock Market was generally tame today, as compared with the excitement of the previous three or four days. The amount of business accomplished was not near so large as on Tuesday or Wednesday. The orders to the Commission Brokers were nevertheless very active, and prices on Government securities, the leading Railway Stocks and Railway Mortgages were well sustained, considering the previous rapid advance. The market opened at the early Board quite strong in Government Stocks, including the 7.30 ₩ cent. Treasury Bonds and Treasury Certificates of 1863. The Border State Stocks were ¼@½ ₩ cent. lower than yesterday, and a corresponding decline was indicated on New-York Central, Erie, and Erie Preferred, and ¼@½ ₩ cent. on some of the Western Shares. On the other hand, Pacific Mail Shares were firm, and Hudson River higher than on Wednesday, advancing in the afternoon to 42 ₩ cent. The absence of exciting War news early in the day, and the disposition evinced by one or two parties inside the Board to take a short line in Stocks at the advanced prices, undoubtedly created the panic in the General Market; but at the close of business it seemed doubtful whether these inferences would long continue to repress the advancing tendency in prices.

Late in the afternoon the following were the bidding rates on the speculative list:

New-York Central	88⅜	Michigan Central	59⅜
Erie	38⅛	Michigan Southern	24⅝
Erie Preferred	65⅞	Mich. Guarant'd	48¾
Tennessees	58¾	Illinois Central	62
Missouris	52½	Galena	71¾
Pacific	117¾	Toledo	45⅝
Hudson	41⅞	Rock Island	62¼

The City Bank Shares were less firm than yesterday, the exceptions being Metropolitan and National, both of which are 2@2½ ₩ cent. higher:

The price of Gold advanced to 103@103½ ₩ cent., to-day, which imparted some firmness to Exchange on London, the rate being 114 ₩ cent. at the close of the day. The market for Money is easy at 4@5 ₩ cent. on temporary employment, and 5@6 ₩ cent. on prime discounts. The daily disbursements of the Government which concentrate at this point continue to swell the line of deposits and country bank balances in the City Banks, and as there is no corresponding increase in the demand from Merchants or Brokers for Money, even at the reduced rates of interest, attention is directed to Government securities of every class, and in which a heavy business is doing in the Street, Independent of the registered sales at the Stock Exchange. A similar condition of things is reported, we believe, from Boston and Philadelphia. The following are the reported figures of the Banks of the three cities for the present week, compared with the previous week, and with the reports of this time last year:

	Loans.	Deposits.	Specie.	Circulation.
New-York, May 5	$133,476,418	$100,644,535	$35,175,828	$4,492,768

Mails to Nova Scotia—Prepayment of Postage.

POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, May 5, 1862.

SIR: I have to inform you that a new arrangement has been concluded between this Department and the General Post-office of the Province of Nova Scotia, requiring the full prepayment of postage to destination, by postage stamps, upon letters exchanged between the United States and Nova Scotia, on and after the 1st of June next; each country to retain, as at present, all the postage it collects.

All letters, therefore, mailed in the United States and addressed to Nova Scotia, on and after the 1st of June, 1862, will be required to be prepaid by United States postage stamps, at the existing rates, viz.: 10 cents the single rate for all distances not over 3,000 miles from the frontier line, and 15 cents for greater distances.

Letters received in this country from Nova Scotia will likewise come fully prepaid, and are to be delivered without further charge.

The prepayment of postage to all the other British North American Provinces continues optional, as at present.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
JOHN A. KASSON,
First Assistant Postmaster-General.
Postmaster of New-York, N. Y.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Accounts from Yorktown to Wedne noon bring us reports that Gen. MCCLELLAN was at that time some distance beyond Williamsburgh, in full pursuit of the flying rebel army, which was retreating in the greatest panic across the Chickahominy River. Our forces came up with them the second time about eight miles from Williamsburgh, where they attempted to make another stand, but after a brisk skirmish fled. A large additional number of prisoners were captured in this encounter, and a number of deserters had come into our lines, who gave the most deplorable account of the condition of the rebel army, as evidenced by their own condition of physical exhaustion. A later dispatch states that the main portion of the flying rebels had succeeded in crossing the Chickahominy, and had destroyed the bridges in their rear; and that Gen. MCCLELLAN was temporarily resting his victorious troops on the east bank. It is stated to have been the general impression at Yorktown that Gen. MCCLELLAN had thus got the enemy precisely where he wanted them. Not less than fifty steamers were meantime engaged in transporting troops up the York River to West Point, from which place they were expected to proceed across the Peninsula, to intercept the rebel retreat. But most important of all is the intelligence telegraphed from Fortress Monroe yesterday, that at 4 o'clock in the morning the iron-clad war-ship Galena, accompanied by the gunboats Aroostook and Port Royal, proceeded up James River toward Richmond, to intercept the flight of the rebels in that direction. They passed the Day's Point Battery without difficulty, and, at last accounts, were far up the river. Later in the day it was ascertained that Sewall's Point was being evacuated by the rebels, and the Monitor, the Naugatuck and several of our gunboats proceeded in that direction.

Capt. BAILEY, of the gunboat Cayuga, bearer of dispatches from Commodore FARRAGUT, arrived at Fortress Monroe yesterday, and telegraphed from that point to the Secretary of the Navy the glorious news that not only is New-Orleans captured, but that Forts Jackson, St. Philip, Livingston and Pike are in our possession, together with all the batteries below and above New-Orleans, and the whole line of the Mississippi River, from the Gulf to Baton Rouge, and probably to Memphis. He says the enemy destroyed from eight to ten million dollars worth of cotton and shipping. Our total loss is but 36 killed and 123 wounded; that of the enemy is from 1,000 to 1,500, beside several hundred prisoners.

A brisk skirmish took place on Wednesday afternoon in Gen. BANKS' Department, near the Shenandoah River, in which several men were killed, wounded and taken prisoners. It was also reported at New-Market that a skirmish took place near Staunton, between ASHBY'S advance and EDWARD JOHNSON'S rebel command, in which the latter was repulsed.

We learn from the Mountain Department that a portion of Gen. COX'S command advanced and occupied Giles' Court-house and Darrows, at New-River, on Wednesday, the rebels there flying on the appearance of our men. A number of prisoners were captured, and an abundance of commissary stores. Our dispatch states that Gen. MILROY was engaged with the enemy yesterday, and that Gen. SCHENCK was advancing.

Dispatches from the division moving under Gen. Cox, on the Kanawha line, report a sharp engagement between the force under Col. SCAMMON and about 300 rebels, at Camp Creek, a fork of Blue Stone, on the morning of the 1st. Six of the enemy were killed, and a considerable number wounded and prisoners. We lost one man killed and twenty slightly wounded. The rebels were completely routed and fled. A scouting party from the Forty-seventh Ohio, on the Lewisburgh road, took four prisoners near Sewall Mountain. The weather is reported clear.

The following are extracts from an official dispatch, sent to headquarters at Nashville, by Gen. DUMONT, under date of Lebanon, May 5:

"We surprised the enemy under Cols. MORGAN and WOOD at 4 this morning, at this place. After a hard-fought battle of one and a half hours, and a running fight of eighteen miles in pursuit, we achieved a complete victory. My force was about six hundred, composed of detachments of WYNKOOP'S Pennsylvania, and CLAY SMITH'S and WOOLFORD'S Kentucky Cavalry. That of the enemy was stated by himself at over eight hundred, and the disloyal inhabitants not in the army opened murderous fire on our soldiers from the houses, and kept it up till the organized force fled or were slain or captured. The force on either side was exclusively mounted. I captured one hundred and fifty prisoners, including R. C. WOOD, late Lieutenant in United States Army; three Captains, four Lieutenants; also, one hundred and fifty horses, and one hundred stand of arms. Our killed will not exceed six, and our wounded twenty-five. Among the latter are Col. CLAY SMITH, in the leg, and Col. WOOLFORD, in the abdomen. We lost no prisoners except Major GIVEN, of the Seventh Pennsylvania, who fell into the enemy's hands during a street fight, mistaking them for our troops. In this little affair, intrepidity and personal daring were conspicuous throughout. The Nashville Union says it is reliably reported by messengers from Lebanon that MORGAN himself is among the killed. Col. WOOLFORD'S wound, it is said, is not dangerous; the ball passed around the body."

A letter in the Louisville Journal gives an account of a scouting expedition made by a detachment of Col. WOOLFORD'S Cavalry, from Glasgow to Nashville, within the past fortnight. The route was through Burksville and Albany, in Kentucky, thence crossing into Tennessee, and successively occupying Livingston, Overton County; Cooksville, Putnam County; and Gainsboro', Jackson County. The effect of the movement was most beneficial, breaking up various marauding gangs and taking a large number of prisoners—among them Lieut. GOOD BARROW and twenty of the rebel MCHENRY'S men, and SMITH, who has been an active participant in the misdeeds of the notorious CHAMP FERGUSON, for whom GOV. ANDREW JOHNSON has offered a reward of $500. The command accomplished about three hundred miles in two weeks, although delayed nearly half the time by the swollen condition of the Wolf and Obed Rivers.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate yesterday, Messrs. FOSTER, of Connecticut; DOOLITTLE, of Wisconsin, and DAVIS, of Kentucky, were appointed a Special Committee to consider the Humphreys impeachment case presented by the House. The House bill, to establish a port of entry and delivery at Hilton Head, S. C., was passed. A petition from citizens of Florida, asking the passage of a confiscation bill, was presented. The bill making an appropriation for the payment of volunteers was taken up, and, after some debate, was passed. The bill limiting the number of Major and Brigadier Generals was also passed. The number is fixed at 30 of the former and 200 of the latter. The bill to establish a Department of Agriculture was passed—25 to 13—after considerable debate. The bill for the appointment of medical storekeepers was passed, with an amendment authorizing the President to appoint Chaplains at hospitals. Mr. DOOLITTLE, of Wisconsin, called up his bill to collect taxes on lands in insurrectionary districts; but after an explanation of its provisions it was postponed until to-day. The bill relative to the selection of jurors for the District of Columbia was passed. After some further business of no particular importance the Senate adjourned.

In the House, the Iowa contested election case, which involves the question of the right of Mr. VANDEVER to a seat while holding a military commission, was postponed until the first Wednesday in December. A resolution was adopted directing the Secretary of War to inform the House of the circumstances attending the assassination of ROBERT E. SCOTT and a Mr. DULANEY, as detailed in the TIMES yesterday. The bill to organize a Territorial Government for Arizona was taken up, and after some debate, in which the principal opposition came from the Border States, it was passed. The bill extending the Eastern boundary of Nevada about sixty miles was also passed. Mr. LOVEJOY, of Illinois, then called up his bill to secure freedom to all persons within the exclusive jurisdiction of the National Government—in other words, to exclude Slavery forever from all the Territories of the United States. Mr. LOVEJOY demanded the previous question upon its passage. Mr. COX, of Ohio, moved to lay it on the table, but the motion was negatived, 65 to 50. The House adjourned, however, without taking the final vote.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Nashville Union publishes the following important call, which is signed by GOV. JOHNSON, BAILIE PEYTON, W. B. CAMPBELL, JORDAN STOKES, ALLEN A. HALL, W. B. STOKES, and a large number of other prominent citizens of Tennessee: "The undersigned respectfully request their fellow-citizens of the State of Tennessee, who are in favor of the restoration of the former relations of this State to the Federal Union, to be present at a public meeting to be held at the Capitol, in the City of Nashville, on Monday, the 12th day of May, 1862."

Dispatches received at Cairo state that citizens of Memphis are fleeing to avoid the conscription act. Throughout the South, those of foreign birth are claiming exemption as citizens of a foreign State. The Avalanche says: "It would astonish the natives to learn how many of those who have heretofore exercised the rights of citizenship have sought to provide against Lincolnism, should it ever succeed, by taking out certificates of some foreign 'prince or potentate.' An elderly person, who has been many years a resident, being asked if he was going into service, shook his head and replied: 'Not a great while ago you were for Americans ruling America; now I am for Americans fighting for America.' Those who show so strong a disposition to be exempt from military service as to seek now to establish their fealty to foreign Governments cannot, even in time, ever become good citizens. Who are they? Are they now engaged in traffic and trade, and are they permitted to avoid military duty on such shallow grounds? The thing should be inquired into, when citizens are compelled into service."

J. D. BRIGHT, once United States Senator from Indiana, was in Wheeling, Va., on Tuesday last, en route for Cincinnati. His actions indicated that he was desirous of avoiding notice.

The United States dispatch steamer Connecticut will be ready to sail from the Navy-yard, Brooklyn, about the 15th inst., with the mails stores, &c., for the Eastern and Western Gulf blockading squadrons. She will not touch at any place this side of Key West.

The loyal ladies of St. Louis, Mo, recently presented Gen. SIGEL with a fine silver goblet. In his speech, accepting the gift, he said: I was not born in this country. I came here like your ancestors, the Huguenots, the Puritans, and the followers of PENN, from a foreign land; but I assure you that my heart and my soul is with this Republic. I am bound to this country with my whole life, because I am bound to the principles upon which this Republic is based—principles for the triumph of which I have struggled and fought from the time I was able to think. I am bound to the sacred soil of Missouri by the memory of those who have fallen under my eyes in the defence of the State and for the maintenance of the Union. For the Stars and Stripes they offered themselves a willing sacrifice, and I will cherish them in my heart to my last days.

Senator SHERMAN, of Ohio, has published a letter claiming that recent events have completely vindicated the character of his brother, Gen. W. T. SHERMAN, from the aspersions so freely cast upon it by the Western Press some months ago.

Brig.-Gen. FERRY has been assigned by Gen. BANKS to the Second Brigade of Gen. SHIELDS' Division, composed of the following regiments: Fifth Ohio, Sixty-second Ohio, Thirteenth Indiana, Thirty-ninth Illinois and Sixty-sixth Ohio. Gen. FERRY has assumed command of his brigade, and his Staff, so far as appointed, is as follows: Dr. JOHN B. LEWIS, Brigade Surgeon, with rank of Major; Capt. BRAYTON IVES, Assistant Adjutant-General; Lieut. GREEN DURBIN, Acting Assistant-Quartermaster; Lieut. E. S. CONVERSE, Acting Assistant-Commissary of Subsistence; Lieut. Edward V. PRESTON, Aid-de-camp.

The ship Merchant, Capt. SPRAGUE, cleared from Boston on Tuesday for Ship Island, with 846 tons of ice and Government stores. On the manifest of her clearance is the following, with the signature of the Deputy Collector appended: "This clearance is granted upon condition that the vessel is to be examined by the Provost Marshal or commanding officer at Ship Island, and liable to seizure and confiscation if containing other cargo than the two articles above mentioned; ice and Government stores."

Our forces captured at Decatur, Alabama, in warehouse, over 500 bales of cotton. Inclusive of the breastworks there and at other places, and such as has been captured in various storehouses, we have nearly, if not over 6,000 bales, with railroad facilities to carry it to the Tennessee River at a point where it can be shipped to Cincinnati in convoy without the necessity of gunboat escort.

The number of postage stamps sold in the New-York Post-office has been gradually increasing for the past two months, and is considered a sure indication of the revival of business generally. The amount now averages about $2,300 per day, and will no doubt soon reach, and possibly exceed, the amount collected here for stamps before the rebellion. The daily sales then were at the rate of nearly a million dollars a year.

The New-Jersey Railroad has lost another of its Directors in the person of Mr. JOHN ACKEN, of New-Brunswick, who died on the 5th instant, at his residence in that city, making the third Director of the Company who has died within a year. Mr. ACKEN was at one time a member of the State Senate, and was an esteemed and influential citizen of New-Brunswick.

At General Term of the Supreme Court, yesterday, on motion of Prof. WM. B. WEDGEWOOD, of the Law Department of the New-York University, the students of that class were admitted to practice as attorneys and counsellors-at-law.

The Stock Market was comparatively tame yesterday after the great excitement of the previous day or two. Government securities were firm, and some conversions were made of United States Notes at the Sub-Treasury with the 6 ₩ cent. Stock of Feb. 25 at par and interest. Late in the afternoon the Railway speculatives closed steady. Gold advanced to 103@103¼, and Exchange was firm at 114 ₩ cent.

Flour and Corn were more freely purchased yesterday, but at lower rates. Wheat was dull and declining. Provisions were less active; Pork and Lard were rather cheaper. Java Coffee was in lively request, as were also Tallow, Sugars and Whisky. Cotton was unsettled. Oils, Metals, and Naval Stores were quiet. Several auction sales of Dry Goods took place, but presented no remarkably new feature. The Freight market was buoyant, though engagements were somewhat restricted.

The Rebel Army Hemmed In—Important Naval Movement.

The important news which we publish this morning, that the iron-clad man-of-war Galena, and two gunboats, started up the James River early yesterday morning, with the object of cutting off the retreat of the rebel army southward, indicates a speedy and decisive issue to the campaign in Virginia. MCCLELLAN was pushing the rebels forward from point to point with such precipitate haste, that it was feared they might see that their safety depended upon an escape out of Virginia; and that, if they succeeded in effecting this, the campaign might be greatly prolonged, and transferred to a region where operations during the Summer would be exceedingly slow and difficult. It was desired by every one that the rebel army might be brought to bay at once, and compelled to try the issue of arms which it had first invited.—Unless now it fly to the mountains as best it may, or effect a hocus-pocus retreat from Richmond over the railroad to Danville, and thence march into the Carolinas, it must fight on its present ground, and fight speedily. The gunboats will ascend the James River to Richmond, and probably capture the city, which would be nothing wonderful, since we have heard of the capture of New-Orleans. They can then go to Petersburgh, capture that place, seize the lines of railroad to Norfolk and to Weldon, and thereby completely isolate Norfolk, and control all the connecting lines of railway running South. If the rebel army be still between the Chickahominy and the James Rivers, they will hold it there until Gen. MCCLELLAN, who was on the right bank of the Chickahominy on Wednesday, can cross that stream, and, acting in conjunction with the large National force at New-Kent, on the line of the Richmond and West Point Railroad, can completely hem the rebels in, and compel a capitulation or a field fight. The Editor-in-chief of this journal, in a letter from the Peninsula, published on Wednesday, stated that if the rebel army crossed the Chickahominy, as he believed it would do, "the only way to prevent its escape was by an advance of our gunboats up the James River." In this morning's issue we publish the fact that the rebel army has actually crossed the Chickahominy; and it is pleasing also to announce, simultaneously with that fact, that the Navy Department has at last woke up to its duty, and put in operation the only means we had of preventing another rebel retreat.

After Gen. MCCLELLAN had defeated the enemy's force near Williamsburgh on Monday, the remnant of it fled from the city that night, but was overtaken, at a distance of eight miles, on Tuesday, and, after a skirmish, managed again to escape. It fled toward the Chickahominy River—which the main body had previously crossed—closely pursued by our troops, and managed to get over the stream just in time to save itself. The National army rested on the left bank of the river on Tuesday night, in readiness for the next grand move of the campaign. Everything on our side is now nearly ready for action. Our gunboats navigate the York and James Rivers. Our troops at New-Kent outflank the rebels on one side, and the Galena outflanks them on the other, while a victorious army, a hundred thousand strong, is in their rear. What will the rebels do? They must either scatter in confusion, fight, or capitulate. JEFF. DAVIS must fly from Richmond, and all the officers of the so-called Confederate Government take to their heels; for the guns of the Galena are no respecters of persons.

Only less important than this news is the other statement that the two iron-clad gunboats—the gallant Monitor and the Naugatuck—had turned their prows and their guns toward Norfolk and toward the Merrimac. It looks as if, tired of waiting for the appearance of that monster, they had determined to beard it in its own den, and seize it and the den. Norfolk now can easily be taken. The rebels removed nearly all their troops from there to the peninsula a month ago, and it is impossible for them now to reinforce it. Gen. BURNSIDE has a large detachment of his corps within convenient distance, if the Monitor itself be not enough to reduce the place and all its defences.

The crisis of the Great Rebellion is at hand. Its utter destruction cannot possibly be delayed.

TESTIMONIAL TO LIEUT. WORDEN.—All who admire gallant conduct will be gratified to learn that Lieut. WORDEN is now convalescent. It is also gratifying that the responsive appreciation of our citizens has swelled the testimonial which it is proposed to present to this officer to a sum already very handsome. Others, however, will doubtless be glad to join in the subscription, and Mr. W. H. ASPINWALL will act as treasurer of the fund. No one who at all understands the object of this testimonial will make the mistake of supposing that it partakes in any degree of the nature of a charity. The design originated solely in the desire to give practical expression to a sense of gratitude for a signal National service, and had no reference to the pecuniary condition of the recipient. It will, however, take nothing from the gratification of the participators that the testimonial which it is proposed to present to the gallant officer will take a form that will make it an acceptable offering to him it honors.

Reopening the Southern Ports—Superseding the Blockade.

Secretary SEWARD has addressed a circular to the Representatives of the Foreign Powers at Washington, which throws the proudest bulletin of victory into the shade, for it is itself the crown and fruition of a hundred victories. It announces the present purpose of the President of the United States to supersede the blockade at New-Orleans, and several other important seaports. For a year all the energies of the Government and the country have been absorbed in war measures. Here is the first measure of peace—a peace possible, however, only by passage through the Red Sea of War. The announcement is not more gratifying to us than it will be to foreign nations whose commerce has been shackled, whose industries have been paralyzed, and whose tempers have been tried by the bar which for twelve months it has been the duty of our Government to lay on all intercourse with the long line of insurgent coast.

To the fact that the President is about to declare a partial, not a total, supersession of the blockade, no technical objection under international law could be interposed by foreign Powers, even though they were disposed to be as critical in this regard as they have been during the war in regard to our exercise of some other belligerent rights. And they will hardly be so disposed. It may be remembered that the blockade was not established along the whole coast at one time, but part by part. It can, of course, be raised by the same method. Beside, partial blockades have ever been the rule, rather than the exception. And it is a powerful argument which Mr. COBDEN (in a remarkable letter on some proposed changes in maritime law, published in our yesterday's issue) cites in favor of the total abolition of commercial blockades, that whilst England has maintained the national right of blockade, she has invariably been compelled to connive at its evasion. The British blockade of France during the great war with NAPOLEON, was perpetually relaxed by licenses, and it is notorious that, at the height of that war, deficiency of the English harvests was repeatedly supplied from the cornfields of their most deadly enemy. The Crimean war affords a more recent and still more striking example. The Allies temporized for a year with their right and power to close the commercial ports of the Black Sea, whilst exercising a strict blockade over the naval arsenals—the object being to make good the deficient harvests in England and France, and upwards of half a million of quarters of grain reached the former country from that region in 1854. The United States, on the contrary, has throughout maintained a strict, impartial and effective blockade—in fact, the only effective blockade ever established; and the same sovereign Power which was put forth to bind, can now be put forth to loose, under such forms and to such extent as it shall see fit.

We may justly surmise that the European Powers will rejoice at the removal of the restriction to the outcome of the great staples; and we find an interesting anticipation of the spirit in which it will be received in an article in the Paris Journal des Débats of a late date. This obviously authoritative article urges that France and England should make united representation to this Government for a relaxation of the blockade, so far as to allow them to procure a supply of cotton and tobacco; and thinks this boon would not be too dearly purchased even at the assent of those Powers to the modifications of maritime law proposed by the United States in 1854. The President's Proclamation, which may be looked for in a day or two, will, of course, forestall any such action, and will throw open half a dozen Atlantic and Gulf ports to the trade of the world.

Fortunately the present situation of affairs is such that, not only will foreign vessels find free ingress to Southern ports, but there is every prospect that foreign nations will now really be able to obtain a supply of the staples they are in want of—which is more than could have been said some months back. For those Powers have had a chance to learn that it was not the blockade alone that kept back cotton; but primarily the action of the so-called "Confederacy," to which they gave a certain importance by their recognition of it as a belligerent. The Confederate agents at the European Capitals, as is revealed by their lately-published diplomatic correspondence, did not hesitate boldly to announce to England and France that the one condition of cotton was the recognition of the "Confederacy" as a nation, and that, without that, they should get no cotton—blockade or no blockade. With this view the Richmond usurpers, at the inception of the war, took the staples under their own wing, and put a strict embargo on its export. This policy they could carry out just so long as they controlled the seaboard. But this sceptre has passed from them. The chief Southern seaports and hundreds of miles of the contiguous coast are now held by the forces of the United States; and it is, of course, at such points only that the relaxation of the blockade is contemplated. The despotic rebel sway being thus broken, and the protecting power of the Union restored, there need be no doubt that commerce will resume its customary channels. Cotton must move to the seaboard when there are there gold and silver and other articles of merchandise to exchange for it. The only limitation to trade will be such a surveillance as the Government has hitherto exercised along the Kentucky and Tennessee line for the purpose of preventing the ingress of articles contraband of war.

This measure of peace, of conciliation, of generosity, will be followed forthwith by the resumption by the National Government of the mail service, and afterwards by the reopening of courts and the reestablishment of justice. These beneficent manifestations of a paternal Government cannot but have the happiest effect on the Southern people. Without doubt the same results will attend the rehabilitation of the National authority in the Southern seaboard cities as have characterized the progress of National restoration in Central Tennessee, where it has been shown that not only does trade revive under the stimulus of renewed intercourse, but that this revival powerfully reacts on public temper, and invariably brings with it a reanimation of Union feeling.

Wide-Awake Journalism—The Heavy-Gaited Herald.

In old age, habits are hard to alter. The Herald has tried in vain to become a decent sheet, properly admissible within the household circle; but its early and ingrained vulgarity and obscenity are irrepressible, and defeat the effort. So in youthful days it was accustomed to obtain the news at least as promptly as its rivals. Now, having abandoned the practice, it cannot rid itself of the habit, of complaint and depreciation with which it remarks the successes of its neighbor. Yesterday, the TIMES furnished the only detailed account, written with great skill and elaborate detail, of the tremendous engagement below New-Orleans. None of our cotemporaries had a line of correspondence from the Mississippi; and those who cared to know the incidents of this most important event of the war were obliged to lay siege to the publication of this paper; or, our editions failing, buy the Express, which, with its usual instincts, stole the products of our enterprise bodily and without acknowledgment. Now, notwithstanding the Herald has had weekly experience in thus seeing itself outstripped by the TIMES, as the history of the Port Royal and the Burnside expedition, and of the expeditions down and up the Mississippi will thoroughly demonstrate, it cannot get accustomed to the sensation, and, while we may be at a loss to know what form the objurgation may take, the explosion of ill-natured scolding that follows each such mortifying defeat we have come to expect with positive certainty.

On Tuesday last we published a careful and rational exposition of the motives which carried M. MERCIER, the French Minister, to Richmond. The public was told that the Emperor of France had become hopeless of that secession cause which had promised so much and achieved so little; had grown weary of the long abstinence from tobacco and cotton, to which the war subjected his people, and disgusted with the barbarous and atrocious principles upon which the rebels are conducting the fight. M. MERCIER had accordingly gone to Richmond to explain these sentiments to the rebel Government, and if he could not bring it to reason, at least induce it to wage the war upon civilized conditions. Appearing in the TIMES, this statement found acceptance and credence, and excited the profoundest interest throughout the country. At this result, the Herald was, of course, disgusted. It had tried, it seems, with the usual success of a journal whose reckless facility in devising canards has utterly destroyed its credit and responsibility, to obtain a hearing for a somewhat similar story a month ago. It now has the impudence to charge the TIMES with borrowing its thunder from the Herald. It so happens that in the infinite and Protean versatility of that journal, it would be difficult to state any fact or record any opinion of which some trace could not be found in the files of a paper, the entire ingenuity of which is devoted, not to discovering the truth, but new and plausible forms in which positive falsehood, or random conjecture, or speculation can be cast. Whatever similitude there may be between the statement of the TIMES and the vapid and worthless guesswork of the Herald, we must, in fact, submit to have charged to the discredit of this paper.

But that the Herald puts no such interpretation upon the French Minister's journey, is evident, we think, from its own columns. On Monday we find it quoting one of its infallible correspondents at Washington in these terms:

"From conversations which he has had with the best informed of the French residents in Washington and Baltimore, the writer is convinced that the Emperor's designs on Mexico are at the bottom of this movement. They state their belief that M. Mercier has concluded with the Confederate Government a treaty which is both political and commercial in its character. It may seem inconsistent that such a step should be taken now, when the Union arms are everywhere triumphant. This view our correspondent meets by the statement that the impression, both in the French Legation and at the Tuileries, is, that the turning point in the war has now been reached, that the tide of success on our side will be arrested, and that the Summer campaign will result disastrously to the Federal arms. This conviction is derived partly from the fact that the Union forces will for the future have to operate at long distances from their base of operations, and where our gunboats cannot penetrate, and partly from the adverse climatic influences that our troops will have to contend with."

These speculations are assumed as the bases of editorial remark, in which there is no indication of dissent. And with equal forgetfulness of the friendly offices to the Union it claims to have ascribed to the French Emperor and his Envoy, the Herald says no earlier than Tuesday:

"Though we never at any time doubted our power to put down the rebellion, we had met with too many evidences of hostility on the part of both England and France from the outbreak of the war not to feel conscious that it would require but a slight pretext to induce them, separately or conjointly, to pick another quarrel with us, so as to afford them a pretext for breaking the blockade. Their hopes in this respect were, as we have said, defeated by the caution and moderation of the President and his Cabinet. The settlement of the difficulty, however, had no effect upon English and French policy in our regard; for, as is now known, our Cabinet had secret intelligence from London and Paris to the effect that if by the 1st of May we did not show that it was in our power to put down the rebellion, the two Governments intended to make a case for themselves, by which, without infringing their own principles of international law, they would be justified in breaking the blockade. To this determination they were no doubt led by the long inaction of our army after the battle of Manassas; and the Mexican expedition was undertaken in the same conviction of our being powerless to prevent or avenge it. It was not the intention of Gen. MCCLELLAN to open the campaign in Virginia until the beginning of April; but in consequence of the information to which we refer he hurried up his plans and began early in March the brilliant series of operations which are now rapidly approaching the consummation of their object—the close of the war, which may be confidently looked for by the 1st of June next. In the meanwhile the proclamation of the President, opening the principal cotton ports, and at once putting the interdict upon the policy of the two Governments which are engaged in this, the most unjustifiable attempt that has ever been entered into against the established rights and power of a friendly nation. No parallel can, in fact, be found for it in history, with the exception of the coalition of the monarchs and despots of Europe against France under the Convention. Nor can any other example be recalled of a voluntary uprising of a whole people to defend their Government, such as has been witnessed here, save that furnished by France at the same period, when a million of her sons rushed to arms to resist the invader."

After these editorial samples, it will hardly be necessary to assure a reader of the TIMES that in vouching for the generous and ardent friendship of France for the American Government, we are in no respect indebted to the Herald. As little indebted, indeed, as for the naval and military correspondence from all parts of the grand theatre of war, which we are in the habit of publishing the day before our lagging and senile neighbor becomes aware of the news.

A LABORATORY OF SECESSION CANARDS.—There constantly turns up in the English or French papers a monstrous canard about the war; and there is always this curious unanimity about them, that they invariably come from Baltimore. Baltimore, in fact, seems to have been selected by JEFF. as a regular laboratory for the manufacture of lies (the only kind of manufacture that flourishes South) for the European market. Here are two or three late specimens of their handicraft. The London Post has a Baltimore dispatch, which says:

Gen. MCCLELLAN'S army, at Yorktown, has been repulsed with heavy loss; he has returned to Washington, having failed after three days' hard fighting, during which time he made many assaults, in every one of which he suffered great loss. The gunboat attack on Yorktown and Gloucester Point (opposite Yorktown, on the same river) was repulsed with the loss of four gunboats and four hundred men. His troops have fallen back on Fortress Monroe, and he now proposes to reduce the place by a regular siege. Everything is blue with the Federals; the obstacles they meet with at every step have astonished them. A strong effort has been made to keep the public in profound ignorance, but here in our city everything leaks out. A steamer arrives here every day from Fortress Monroe, and trains of cars from Winchester, and the employes will talk.

The grand army of the Potomac has been driven back, and the Confederates are about assuming the offensive. The army of the West is to-day reported routed by the Southern General (BEAUREGARD.) TRUTH.

BALTIMORE, April 8.

The London Herald, in its Baltimore dispatch, says:

"Private advices from parties who left Richmond on the 1st inst., confirm the report of Van Dorn's victory at Pea Ridge over the Union army, capturing 6,000 to 7,000 prisoners, 12,000 stand of arms and 27 pieces of artillery, at least so says his official report. The disaster at Donelson is said to have been of great service to the Southerners, waking them up to a sense of their danger. The Southern Congress have passed a law repealing all tariffs, adopting the free-trade doctrine straight out, except as towards the United States. Most of the items said to be taken from Southern papers are manufactured in the North, and no reliance whatever is to be placed in them. Nothing in the North is allowed to be printed, copied or original, detrimental to the cause."

Mr. Birdofredum Sawin, in his epistle to Mr. Hosea Biglow, hits off the true philosophy of this sort of thing:

JEFF'S some. He's gut another plan that hez particklas merits,
In givin' things a cherfle look an' stiffnin' loose-hung spcrits;
Our papers don't purtend to print on'y what Guv'ment choose,
An thet insures us all to get the very best o' noose:
JEFF. hez it of all sorts an' kines, an' sawes it out es wanted,
So 's 't every man gits wut he likes an' nobody ain't scanted."

THE PROPOSED COLLECTOR AT NEW-ORLEANS. We announced a few days since the appointment of Mr. LATHROP, of Philadelphia, to the office of Collector of New-Orleans. We were somewhat surprised at the suddenness of the announcement, as a little reflection justified us in the belief that the appointment was, to say the least, injudicious. Mr. LATHROP is an estimable gentleman, but not only has been absent from New-Orleans some ten years, but left that City, from the fact that he found the place, as the people, inharmonious with his feelings and habits. We trust that Mr. CHASE will wait a little, and put the best man possible in the place. The position is one of immense responsibility, second, for the time being, to none under Government.

IS IT RIGHT?—Gen. SICKLES' Excelsior Brigade bore the brunt of the battle at Williamsburgh, lavished prodigal valor, lost no less than two hundred and forty men, and helped largely to carry the day.

The man whose constant assiduity brought this fine brigade up to this superb fighting trim, and who ought to be with his men leading the van, is compelled to linger in this City—the Senate not having yet seen fit to confirm his restoration to his command; and this without an attempt to show any reason for the delay!

This confusion of all relations jars on the public instinct of justice and right

Amusements.

THEATRE FRANCAIS, NIBLO'S CONCERT ROOM.—The remains of the French Company that were performing in this City, some two years since, gave last night one of their present series of representations. It was for the benefit of M. EDGARD. The staple of the evening's entertainment was, of course, adapted to the limited numbers of their company, consisting of one act comedy and vaudeville. The company is, however, excellent in this class of piece, and attracted by that excellence a large audience, whose enjoyment of the entertainment provided for them must have been most satisfactory to the beneficiare. Three pieces were given, the first of which was "Triolet à la Recherche d' un Père." This was very crisply and neatly rendered. It was followed by "Marton and Frontin," placed upon the stage in this City, for the first time, and cleverly acted by Madame LAGARRE and M. EDGARD. We may hint to many of our own actors that it might be very possible to take a lesson from the closeness of style and clean finish of manner displayed by the few French artists forming the present troupe.

We may mention that the last performance of the Company will take place in the coming week, with a sincere wish that it may be a crowded house on the paying side of the footlights.

THEODORE THOMAS' CONCERT.—The concert announced for Tuesday next promises to be unusually and exceedingly interesting. The attractions which it offers are marked, and entitle it to be considered the orchestral concert of the season. WAGNER'S overture to "Der Fliegende Hollaender" will be given for the first time in this country. "The Grand Fantasia," op. 15, by F. SCHUBERT, arranged for piano and orchestra by LISZT, will also make its first acquaintance, through WILLIAM MASON, with our public, and a Grand Quartette for the piano, by MOSCHELES, will be produced, in which MILLS, GOLDBECK, HARTMANN and MASON will perform. We have already mentioned that MEYERBEER'S music for his brother's Tragedy of "Struensee" will also be for the first time rendered in the United States. Any one of these novelties might be musically considered sufficient to attract a large audience. If, together, they do not, it will be on the score that his concert has been too prodigally arranged as regards novelty, and is absolutely open to the objection of laboring under the embarrassment of too much musical wealth.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Probable Speedy Passage of the Tax Bill.

THE FIRST MAIL FOR NEW-ORLEANS.

A Demand Upon the British Government for the Restitution of the Emily St. Pierre.

A Territorial Government for Arizona.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 8.

THE TAX BILL.

The Tax bill, it is now considered certain, will be passed very nearly as reported by the Senate Committee. The revenue of twenty cents a pound on tobacco, to be manufactured after the passage of the bill, may be increased. No one believes that the stocks on hand will be taxed—the revenue being quite ample from this source without committing an act so unusual and unjust. The House has decided in this by an almost unanimous vote, and the Senate Committee have affirmed this view of the question. It is due to dealers who hold stocks to make this statement.

THE FIRST MAIL TO NEW-ORLEANS.

The Connecticut steamer will sail from New-York on the 12th inst. for New-Orleans, taking the first United States mail to that port since the secession of the State. An agent and corps of clerks will go out on her to reopen and reorganize the Post-office in that City.

A DEMAND FOR THE RESTORATION OF THE EMILY ST. PIERRE.

Minister ADAMS has presented a claim to the British Government for the restoration of the ship Emily St. Pierre, the captain of which rose upon the prize crew and conveyed her to Liverpool, after her capture by the United States fleet for violating the blockade.

RECRUITING FOR REGIMENTS NOW IN SERVICE.

An order from the War Department says: Upon requisitions made by the commanders of armies in the field, authority will be given by the Department to the Governors of the respective States to recruit regiments now in the service.

ADDRESS OF THE DEMOCRACY TO THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES.

Messrs. RICHARDSON, KNAPP and ROBINSON, of Illinois; LAW and VOORHIES, of Indiana; ALLEN, WHITE, NOBLE, PENDLETON, MORRIS and VALLANDIGHAM, of Ohio; JOHNSON and ANCONA, of Pennsylvania, and SMITH, of Oregon, have issued an address to the Democracy of the United States, setting forth party organization as a positive good, and essential to the preservation of public liberty. This they say is now a vital necessity, and they invite all men, without distinction of State, section or party, "who are for the Constitution as it is and the Union as it was," to unite with them in the great work of preserving both upon terms of perfect equality. This they agree is the great issue. The document concludes as follows:

Inviting all men, without distinction of State, section or party, who are for the Constitution as it is, and the Union as it was, to unite with us in this great work upon terms of perfect equality, we insist that:

The restoration of the Union, whether through peace or by war, demands the continued organization and success of the Democratic Party;

The preservation of the Constitution demands it;

The maintenance of liberty and free democratical government demands it;

The restoration of a sound system of internal policy demands it;

Economy and honesty in the public expenditures, now at the rate of $4,000,000 a day, demand it;

The rapid accumulation of an enormous and permanent public debt demand it—a public debt already one thousand millions of dollars, and equal at the present rate, in three years, to England's debt of a century and a half in growth;

The heavy taxation, direct and indirect, State and Federal, already more than two hundred millions of dollars a year, eating out the substance of the people, augmenting every year, demands it;

Reduced wages, low prices, depression of trade, decay of business, scarcity of work, and impending ruin on every side, demand it;

And, finally, the restoration of the concord, good feeling and prosperity of former years, demands that the Democratic Party shall be maintained and made victorious.

The reorganization of the Democratic Party as recommended by the members of Congress of that faith is about being tried on a small scale in the City of Washington. Ward-meetings of "National Democrats" are held nightly, and a full ticket for municipal officers will be put up. It is a noticeable fact that the speakers at these meetings generally indorse ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S administration of the Government as honest and conservative.

THE CHARGES AGAINST MR. LATHROP.

There is reason to believe that the charges against Mr. LATHROP, recently appointed Collector at New-Orleans, are frivolous and unfounded, originating in the selfish wish of others to obtain his place. A merchant of the highest integrity, now in Washington, who did business in New-Orleans nineteen years, and is still a leading business man in the West, and who has known Mr. LATHROP well and had business relations with him, assures me to-night that he never knew or heard of any imputation on his integrity or business capacity. The worst charge made against him here seems to be that an insurance company failed of which he was once agent.

MR. ROBERT E. SCOTT.

Mr. ROBERT E. SCOTT, an account of whose assassination I gave yesterday, was about 50 years old, and a long time had enjoyed the reputation of being one of the very first lawyers in his State. His first wife was a daughter of ROBT. J. TAILOR, a prominent citizen of Alexandria. Mr. SCOTT was a leading member of the State Committee for revising the Code in 1852 and 1853; was a member of the National Convention at Baltimore that nominated BELL and EVERETT, and a member of the State Convention that passed the Ordinance of Secession. As far as the proceedings of that secret Convention have been revealed, and from his known sentiments as represented by acquaintances, Union gentlemen now in this city, it seems Mr. SCOTT went into the Convention opposed to secession, and if he voted for it at all, it was only after it had been passed by the majority of 68 to 55, and only to gratify the clamor of the majority for unanimity. He never took an active part in the rebellion. He was a son of the Judge by that name, one of the ablest of his State. Mr. SCOTT is said to have been as remarkable for his independence of opinion as for his professional ability. Repeatedly he declined invitations to run for Congress, because, as he said, he did not think he could represent the sentiments of his Congressional District. He was once defeated for the Assembly on the question of reëslaving free negroes in Virginia, he resisting the measure as a clear violation of right. He was always an old line Whig up to the last election, and his father was a Federalist before him.

THE NEW GUNBOATS.

The plan of gunboats for the Southern and Western rivers, submitted by Jas. B. EADS, of St. Louis, and recommended by the Naval Examiners, is attracting the attention of Ministers of foreign Governments. Models and descriptions will be sent abroad.

ARRESTED.

A man was arrested here to-day for attempting to pass a hundred dollar bill on the Allegheny Bank, of Pittsburgh, Penn. Twenty-one bills of that denomination were found on his person. The notes are exceedingly well executed, and therefore a dangerous counterfeit.

THE ENTERPRISE OF THE TIMES.

The New-York TIMES of to-day was declared, by common consent, the most magnificent specimen of American journalism that ever reached the Capital. Its exclusive detailed account of the capture of New-Orleans, and its full and highly important special dispatches from McCLELLAN'S army, invested it with an interest but seldom obtained by a newspaper in this country.

NOT YET RETURNED.

The President and Secretary of War had not returned to Washington at a late hour this evening.

THE PROCEEDINGS OF CONGRESS.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 8.

The President pro tem. laid before the Senate a resolution from the House for the impeachment of Judge HUMPHREYS.

On motion of Mr. FOSTER, of Connecticut, (Rep.,) the resolution was referred to a Select Committee of Three.

The President pro tem. appointed Messrs. FOSTER, DOOLITTLE and DAVIS, as the Committee.

The bill to establish a Port of Entry and Delivery at Hilton Head, S. C., was received from the House.

On motion of Mr. CHANDLER, the bill was taken up and passed.

Mr. WRIGHT, of Indiana, (Union,) presented a petition from citizens of Florida, asking for the passage of a confiscation bill.

Mr. GRIMES offered a petition of Gen. FRANZ SIGEL, and the officers of his Staff, and other German citizens, asking for a German Professorship at West Point, and recommending REINHOLD SOLGER for such officer.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, (Rep.,) presented a remonstrance from citizens of Boston against what is called the "Bigelow" system of taxation.

On motion of Mr. FESSENDEN, of Maine, (Rep.,) the bill making an appropriation for deficiencies of payment to the volunteers was taken up.

Mr. FESSENDEN said the appropriations for the payment of the two and three years' volunteers amount to $105,000,000.

Mr. HALE, of New-Hampshire, (Rep.,) said he saw in a morning paper a statement signed by members of Congress, that the expenses of the Government were four millions a-day. He (HALE) would like to know whether there is any foundation for the statement.

Mr. FESSENDEN could not undertake to answer all the statements in newspapers, whether made by members of Congress or anybody else; but he had no idea that the expenses of the Government amounted to any such sum.

Mr. SHERMAN, of Ohio, (Rep.,) said a great deal of complaint had been made because the officers of the army were not able to tell us the exact number in the army. He contended that it was impossible, because regiments were constantly changing by losses and recruiting, etc.

Mr. GRIMES, of Iowa, (Rep.,) said that might have been true when the recruiting of the army was going on, but there was not the slightest reason now why we should not know at the end of every month every man we had under pay in the army. If the officers of the army performed their duty, we could have the information.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, argued that from the existing state of things it was utterly impossible to tell how many men we have in service.

Mr. CLARK, of New-Hampshire, (Rep.,) asked Mr. WILSON if he could state how many men had been sent into the field by the different States.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, said that about forty days ago there were about fifty regiments yet not in the field. He supposed about 570,000 men had been put in the field, and that there were now in the field about 525,000.

Mr. FESSENDEN said that from a calculation made at the War Department, there had been about 586,000 men put in the field.

Mr. TEN EYCK, of New-Jersey, (Rep.,) did not think it essential we should know exactly to a man how many men we have in order to pass this bill. He hoped Senators would vote and pass it.

Mr. DAVIS, of Kentucky, (Union,) would cheerfully vote for the bill, but censured the War Department for the confusion which appeared to exist in reference to the matter. It was admitted on all sides that there had never been a more incapable and inefficient Secretary of War than the former one, (CAMERON.) He was utterly ignorant of everything connected with the Department.

Mr. HARRIS, of New York, (Rep.,) said, the State of New-York had sent 105 regiments of infantry, eleven regiments of cavalry, and four of artillery to the war—making in all 120 regiments. Many of those composing them had been killed, disbanded, &c. It would be utterly impossible to keep an exact account of all these men.

The bill was then passed.

The bill limiting the number of Major and Brigadier Generals of Volunteers was taken up.

The question was on Mr. HALE'S amendment to make the number 180, instead of 200.

The amendment was rejected, by yeas 16, nays 19.

The bill was then passed.

The bill limits the number of Major-Generals to 30, and of brigadier-generals to 200.

Mr. SUMNER, of Massachusetts, (Rep.,) offered a resolution, that, in the efforts now making for the restoration of the Union and the establishment of the laws throughout the country, it is inexpedient that the victories obtained over our own citizens should be placed on the regimental colors of regiments of the United States.

The bill to establish a Department of Agriculture was taken up.

Mr. SIMMONS, of Rhode Island, (Rep.,) spoke in favor of the bill, urging as a reason that the agriculturists had long been seeking recognition from the Government. That class had asked but little of the Government, but the sturdy farmers leaned on plowhandles for support rather than on the Government.

Mr. HALE of New-Hampshire, (Rep.,) thought one of the best things connected with agriculture was, that it was an art thus far kept out of the hands of politicians. The farmers depended on Mother Earth and Father God for success. He thought that this request for a new Department and for a new seat in the Cabinet comes not from the farmers who lean on their plow-handles, but from those who want them to take their hands off the plow-handles and vote for them at the ballot-box. If the genius of agriculture could be impersonated, her prayer to Congress would be, "For God's sake, let us alone."

Mr. FOSTER, of Connecticut, (Rep.,) thought, instead of making a separate Department, we should first make a Bureau.

Mr. COWAN, of Pennsylvania, (Rep.,) argued that there was no warrant in the Constitution for such a bill. We had much better let agriculture alone. In 1839 we made an appropriation of $1,000, and now we make an appropriation of $6,000 per year, to distribute seeds among the people, which the people could buy at a quarter the cost at any seed-store in the country, and the seeds would not be good for anything either. It reminded him of the Irishman, who, wanting to improve the breed of cattle of this country, imported a yoke of oxen. He had several applications for the head of this department already. One young man applied who, he was assured, never touched a plow-handle. The young man said he had written a great deal on agriculture; and he (COWAN) found out afterwards that he was a newspaper reporter, who got his knowledge of agriculture at county Fairs, &c. He did not believe the real farmers of the country asked for any such thing as the bill proposes.

Mr. FESSENDEN said he thought it was too late to question the constitutionality of appropriation for seeds. It was settled by a kind of custom, but we had better settle how far we should go. He did not believe the farmers of the country ever asked for a department; but the great objection he had was the ause to which this thing grew, and the certain drain on the Treasury which follows; and even if advisable, this was not the proper time. He thought the farmers would be better satisfied if we stop spending money and open no new sluices of expense.

The question on Mr. FOSTER'S amendment, as a substitute for the bill for making a Bureau of Agriculture in the Department of the Interior, the head bureau to be called the Commissioner of Statistics and Agriculture, with a salary of $3,000, was lost. Yeas 18; nays 18.

The bill was then reported to the Senate, when Mr. FOSTER renewed his amendment with a slight modification. It was again lost, 18 to 18—Mr. GRIMES present but refused to vote.

The bill was then passed, as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Anthony, Chandler, Davis, Dixon, Foot, Hale, Harris, Henderson, Howe, Kennedy, McDougall, Morrill, Pomeroy, Powell, Saulsbury, Sherman, Simmons, Sumner, Ten Eyck, Trumbull, Wade, Wilkinson, Wiley, Wilson of Massachusetts, Wilson of Missouri—25

NAYS—Messrs. Browning, Clark, Collamer, Cowan, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foster, Harlan, King, Lane of Indiana, Lane of Kansas, Starke and Wright—13.

On motion of Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, the bill for the appointment of Medical Storekeepers was taken up, and amended so as to authorize the President to appoint Chaplains at hospitals—and passed.

Mr. DOOLITTLE, of Wisconsin, (Rep.,) called up the bill introduced by him to collect taxes on lands in insurrectionary districts. He briefly explained that the bill provides for assessment of value of lands, assuming the valuation made before the rebellion. It gives sixty days after the President's proclamation to pay taxes; authorizes Commissioners to follow the armies and sell land for taxes, giving sixty days for owners after the sale to redeem on taking the oath to support the Constitution, with two years' time for redemption to loyal citizens; no right of redemption to persons engaged in the rebellion or giving aid and comfort. It provides for leasing lands, and the employment of families who reside on lands; it provides for the final sales of lands in small parcels of 160 acres, allowing soldiers to give certificates of indebtedness against the United States in part payment, on paying one-fourth, and gives three years to pay the balance; it allows loyal citizens of the State who own no lands to preëmpt unreclaimed lands, the proceeds of the sales to go into the Treasury of the United States, one-fourth to be paid over to the States where the lands are, when they become loyal and elect Governor and Legislature who swear to support the Constitution, to aid in the payment of taxes of loyal citizens of those States, and another fourth to be paid over for the voluntary colonization of such persons of color as are made free, or become free during the insurrection, to Hayti, Liberia, or other tropical country.

The bill was postponed till to-morrow.

On motion of Mr. HALE, the bill relative to the selection of jurors for the District of Columbia was taken up.

Mr. GRIMES offered an amendment that any person serving on the grand or petit jury, in the United States of America, shall take additional oath never to take up arms against the Government of the United States in any rebellion, or advise or encourage any person to do so, or directly or indirectly give aid, comfort or assistance to any person joining any insurrection.

Messrs. HALE and TRUMBULL opposed putting the amendment on this bill, as was the intention of the Judiciary Committee, except the general bill on the subject.

Mr. GRIMES withdrew the amendment, and the bill passed.

On motion of Mr. GRIMES, the bill providing for the education of colored children in the District of Columbia, was taken up. The bill provides that ten per cent. of the tax collected from colored residents be applied to the education of colored children.

Mr. WILSON, of Massachusetts, moved to add a new section, that all persons of color in the District of Columbia be subject and amenable to the same laws as free white persons, and be tried for offences in the same manner as free persons, and, if convicted of any crime against the law, be liable to the same penalty and punishment, and no other, than free white persons are liable for the same crime, and all acts and parts of acts inconsistent are hereby repealed.

The amendment was adopted. The amendment repeals the black code of the District.

Mr. HALE introduced a bill to abolish the office of Marshal for the District of Columbia, and establish that of Sheriff of the District.

Adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, May 8.

Mr. BROWNE, of Rhode-Island, (Rep.,) from the Committee on Elections, called up the Iowa contested election case. It refers to Mr. VANDEVER, and involves the question whether, under the Constitution, a member of Congress can hold this position at the same time that he has a military commission, and is in command of a regiment.

After a few words of explanation, Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, (Rep.,) moved to postpone the subject until the first Wednesday in December.

The motion was agreed to by 79 against 49.

Mr. BROWN, of Virginia, (Union,) offered the following, which was adopted:

Whereas, It is reported that ROBERT E. SCOTT, and a man by the name of DULANEY, citizens of Fauquier County, Virginia, were killed on Saturday last by two soldiers belonging to the army of the United States; be it therefore

Resolved, That the Secretary of War be requested to ascertain all the facts in relation to said supposed homicide, and particularly if the same was perpetrated by the command or permission of any officer of the army, and if not, what steps, if any, have been taken to arrest or punish the soldiers aforesaid, and to furnish such information at his earliest convenience to this House.

The bill to organize a Territorial Government for Arizona was taken up.

Mr. WHEELER, of New-York, (Rep.,) opposed it on the ground of public policy at this time, the insufficiency of the population of the Territory, and on account of the expense which the measure would incur.

Mr. WATTS, of New-Mexico, in reply, said that the people of Arizona had petitioned for a Government until they had become discouraged. The population is 10,500, of which 6,456 are whites and 21 negroes. The remainder are Indians, who are not wild, and who are entitled to all the rights of citizenship under the treaty of Guadaloupe Hidalgo.

Mr. MALLORY, of Kentucky, (Union,) inquired whether they had now all these rights under the Territorial Government of New-Mexico.

Mr. WATTS replied they had not the benefit of the judiciary, being 700 miles distant from Santa Fé. He argued generally in favor of the measure.

Mr. ASHLEY, of Ohio, (Rep.,) showed the importance of the passage of the bill, quoting the opinions of distinguished persons in support of his position, and speaking of the great mineral wealth of Arizona, and of the duty to assist in its development. He said, incidentally, there were traitors in every department of the Government.

Mr. WICKLIFFE, of Kentucky, (Union)—Let us hear the name of one of them.

Mr. ASHLEY—That's my opinion.

Mr. WICKLIFFE—Take the assertion back, then.

Mr. ASHLEY remarked, that is the opinion of the Committee on the Conduct of the War, and he believed it was the opinion of others, from the evidences around them. We daily hear expressions of sympathy for those who are seeking the nation's life. The Tax bill is in the character of a bill confiscating the property of loyal citizens, but there is hesitation to confiscate the property of the rebels by gentlemen falling back on musty precedents, and interposing subterfuges, and discussing the question of constitutionality.

Mr. WHEELER moved the postponement of the bill until the second Monday in December.

Motion disagreed to by five majority.

Mr. CRAVENS of Indiana, (Opp.,) moved to table the bill.

The motion was negatived by 50 against 72.

The bill was then passed.

The bill provides the usual machinery for a territorial Government, and repeals all laws in the organization of the territory recognizing the relations of master and slave, and prohibits Slavery therein. The bill extending the Eastern limits of Nevada about sixty miles, was passed.

Mr. LOVEJOY, of Illinois, (Rep.,) called up the bill to secure freedom to all persons within the exclusive jurisdiction of the National Government, to the end that freedom may remain forever the fundamental law of the land and in all places whatsoever, so far as it lies within the power or depends upon the action of the Government of the United States to make it so; Therefore,

Resolved, That Slavery and involuntary servitude in all cases whatsoever, (other than in the punishment of crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted,) shall henceforth cease and be prohibited in all the following places, viz.:

First—In all the Territories now existing, or hereafter to be formed or acquired in any way.

Second—In all places purchased by the United States with the consent of the Legislatures of the several States, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings.

Third—In all vessels on the high seas, and on all National highways beyond the territory and jurisdiction of each of the several States, from which, or to which the said vessels may be going.

Fourth—In all places whatsoever, where the National Government is supreme, or has exclusive jurisdiction and power.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That any person now held, or attempted to be held hereafter as a slave, in any of the places abovenamed, is hereby declared to be free, and the rights of freedom, hereby declared, may be asserted in any of the Courts of the United States, or of the General States, in behalf of the party or her posterity, after any lapse of time, upon the principle that a party once free is always free.

Mr. WICKLIFFE referred to the Georgia cession, and asked whether the gentleman from Illinois (LOVEJOY) proposed to violate this contract with the United States.

Mr. LOVEJOY did not reply, but demanded the previous question.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Opp.,) moved to lay the bill on the table.

Mr. MALLORY raised the question that the bill was not properly before the House, as the day was set apart for the consideration of territorial business. The Speaker overruled the point.

The House refused to lay the bill on the table by a vote of 50 against 85.

The Riots at Pottsville, Penn.

POTTSVILLE, Penn., Thursday, May 8.

All is quiet, but difficulty is apprehended to-night. The Philadelphia troops are at Heckscherville, guarding the works of the Forrest Improvement Company. There is much excitement among the miners.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, May 8.

More troops and a battery proceeded to Pottsville this afternoon. Parties arrived from the scene report that there is less excitement at Pottsville than was expected. Many of the strikers were three months' volunteers, and well drilled in the use of arms, but manifest no disposition to have an encounter with the State authorities. They considered themselves seriously aggrieved by the diminution of wages, if blood should be shed, serious results are apprehended.

POTTSVILLE, Thursday, May 8.

The difficulty is all settled, and the troops will return to Philadelphia in the morning. The employers agreed to pay the advance demanded.

The Sanitary Commission asks Contributions for the aid and relief of the Volunteer army.

There will in all probability soon be many wounded men to provide for, and our troops on the Southern coast are endangered by the unhealthy season now approaching. There is, therefore, special need of public liberality on their behalf, at least until the measures now pending in Congress to strengthen the Medical Department of the army shall be perfected. Agencies and depôts of hospital stores, &c., are maintained at heavy expense in connection with every portion of the army.

Contributions may be addressed to GEORGE T. STRONG, Treasurer, No. 68 Wall-st., New-York.

Rupture and Varicocele Cured.—DR. RIGGS' Hard Rubber Truss, challenges comparison with any truss known, unaffected by perspiration, always clean and never injures the spermatic vessels. Sixty days' trial given. No. 2 Barclay-st., New-York.

Ladies' French Walking Boots, New Style.—Also, Balmoral and Gaiter Boots, for Spring wear, with Ladies', Misses', Boys' and Infants' Boots and Shoes of all styles and prices, at MILLER & CO.'s No. 387 Canal-st.

PROPOSALS FOR $250,000 OF "THE NEW-YORK COUNTY COURT-HOUSE STOCK."—Sealed Proposals will be received at the Comptroller's Office, until SATURDAY, May 17, 1862, until 2 o'clock P. M., when the same will be publicly opened for the whole or any part of the sum of Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars of "The New-York County Court-house Stock," authorized by chapter 151, of the Laws of 1862, and by an ordinance of the Board of Supervisors, approved by the Mayor, April 18, 1862.

The said stock is to provide means to pay for the land acquired for a new Court-House, and to erect such Court-house thereon. It will bear interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum, payable half yearly, on the first days of May and November, and the principal will be redeemable in successive annual installments of one hundred thousand dollars each commencing with the first day of November, A. D., 1875.

The proposals will state the amount of stock desired, and the price per one hundred dollars thereof; and the persons whose proposals are accepted, will be required to deposit with the County Treasurer, within fifteen days after the opening of the bids, the sum awarded to them respectively.

On presenting to the Comptroller the receipts of the County Treasurer for such deposits, the parties will be entitled to receive certificates for equal amounts of the par value of the stock, bearing interest from the dates of payments.

Each proposition should be sealed and indorsed, "Proposals for New-York County Court-house Stock," and inclosed in a second envelope, addressed to the Comptroller.

The right is reserved to reject any or all of the bids, if considered necessary to protect or promote the interests of the County.

ROBT. T. HAWS, Comptroller.

THE RECEIVER OF THE CLEVELAND AND PITTSBURGH RAILROAD COMPANY gives notice that the assets of the Company are in his hands, subject to the direction of the United States Court for the Northern District of Ohio; that by the order of the Court no portion of the earnings of the road can be applied to the payment of any of the unsecured indebtedness of the Company. All the earnings, after paying operating expenses, rent and mortgage interest, will be applied to the principal of those debts, which are due and secured, amounting at the present time to about a million of dollars.

The accrued interest on the three old mortgages has all been provided for from the earnings of the road, and the next interest to be paid is on the funded debt mortgage bonds (given in exchange for the unsecured indebtedness) on the 1st day of July, 1862. The holders of the River Line Bonds, Income Bonds, Dividend Bonds and Bills Payable, who have not yet accepted the terms of compromise offered them with the approval of the United States Court are notified to exchange their bonds and notes before the 25th day of June, 1862, or they will not be entitled to receive any portion of the earnings of the road. Interest will be paid only to those who accept the compromise.

The new bonds can be obtained in exchange for any unsecured indebtedness at the office of the Company in Cleveland, or at No. 25 William-st., New-York City, of H. C. KINGSLEY.

NOTICE.—DR. C. D. HAMMOND (AUTHOR OF "Nervous Debility," &c.) has returned from Europe, and may be consulted as heretofore, at No. 31 East 27th-st., fifth house from Madison-av., from 8 to 10, 1 to 3 and 6 to 9 evening.

SOMETHING FOR EVERY LADY.—DR. WARD'S Great Benefactor. The great periodical remedy, infallible for the immediate removal of monthly obstructions. Office, No. 12 Laight-st., near Canal, where Dr. WARD can be consulted confidentially, day or evenings.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than fifty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in new cases in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent effects of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of annihilating the rank and poisonous taint that the blood is sure to absorb, unless his remedy is used. This is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Its value must be based upon what he does, not upon what he says. Its merits are known to the afflicted, and to them only. Dr. HUNTER begins to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he is not consulted by druggists, chemists and physicians, in regard to some pitiful patient, who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. Its popularity is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attached it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then pretend that they can make it. It is $1 a vial, and cannot be obtained genuine anywhere but at the old office, No. 3 Division-st. Book for 15 three cent stamps, 300 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

AN ACT TO CONFER ADDITIONAL POWERS upon the Metropolitan Police, relating to the inspection of Steam Boilers, passed April, 1862.—The People of the State of New-York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SECTION 1. Every owner of a steam boiler or boilers, in use in the Metropolitan Police District, shall annually, and at such convenient times and in such manner and form as may by rules and regulations, to be made therefor by the Metropolitan Police Board, be provided, report to the said Metropolitan Police Board, at its headquarters, the location of such steam boiler or boilers, and thereupon and as soon thereafter as practicable, the Metropolitan Sanitary Company, or such member or members thereof as may be competent for the duty herein prescribed, and may be detailed for such duty by the Metropolitan Police Board; but no person shall be detailed for such duty except he be a practical engineer, who shall proceed to inspect such steam boiler or boilers; and all appliances connected therewith, and the strength and security of such boilers shall be tested by hydrostatic pressure, and they shall limit the pressure of steam to be applied to or upon such boilers, certifying each inspection, and with the limit of pressure to the owner of the boiler inspected, and also to the engineer in charge of the same, and no greater amount of steam or pressure than that certified in the case of any boiler, shall be applied thereto. In limiting the amount of pressure, wherever the boiler under the test will bear the same, the limit desired by the owner of the boiler, shall be the one certified.

SEC. 2. The Metropolitan Police Board shall preserve in proper form a correct record of all inspection of steam boilers, and of the amount of steam or pressure allowed in each case, and in cases where any steam boiler or the appliances or a sparatus connected therewith shall be deemed by the Board after inspection to be unsecure or dangerous, the Board shall prescribe such changes and alterations as may render such boilers, apparatus and appliances secure and devoid of danger. And in the meantime, and until such changes and alterations are made, and such appliances attached, such boiler, apparatus and appliances may be taken under the control of the Police Board, and all persons prevented from using the same; and in case deemed necessary, the appliances, apparatus or attachments for the limitation of pressure, may be taken under the control of the said Police Board, and no owner or agent of any steam boiler shall employ any person as engineer without their having a certificate as to qualification from practical engineers, to be countersigned by the Commissioners of Police.

SEC. 3. Any person applying or causing to be applied to any steam boiler a higher pressure of steam than that limited for the same in accordance with the provisions of this Act, and any person violating the provisions of the second section of this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and whenever any owner of any steam boiler in the Metropolitan District shall fail or omit to have the same reported for inspection as provided for by this Act, such boiler may be taken under the control of the Metropolitan Police Board, and all persons prevented from using the same until it can be satisfactorily tested as herein provided for, and the owner shall in such case be charged with the expense of so testing it.

SEC. 4. This Act shall take effect immediately.

CENTRAL DEPARTMENT OF METROPOLITAN POLICE, No. 413 Broome-st., corner of Elm-st., NEW-YORK, May 1, 1862.

In conformity with the provisions of the Act enfitled "An Act to confer additional powers upon the Metropolitan Police relating to the inspection of steam boilers, passed April, 1862," all persons owning or using any stationary steam boiler, or boilers, in the Metropolitan Police District, except those connected with ranges in private dwellings, are required to report to the Board of Police, in writing, between this date and the 30th day of May, 1862, the location of such boiler or boilers so owned or used by them, and the business or purpose for which such boilers are used, and thereafter in case of any removal of a steam boiler, or the erection of a new one, a like report shall be made forthwith, and all parties are requested to have a nipple and cock, 1½ inches diameter, put in some convenient part of their steam boiler, so that the Inspectors will have no difficulty in making connections for testing.

By order of the Board of Police.
SETH C. HAWLEY, Chief Clerk.

FROM GEN. HALLECK'S ARMY.

The Memphis and Charleston Railroad Reported to be Seized by Gen. Buell.

Gen. Pope Said to Have Advanced to the Mobile and Ohio Railroad.

The Rebels at Corinth Being Surrounded.

UREGARD ON THE DEFENSIVE.

CHICAGO, Friday, May 8.

A special dispatch from Cairo to the Times says:

It is reported from Pittsburgh that taree brigades of Gen. Buell's army had seized that part of the Memphis and Charleston Railroad midway between Corinth and Grand Junction, thus cutting off the rebel communication between the two points. It is also reported that a detachment of Gen. Pope's army had sized the road south of Corinth.

CAIRO, Thursday, May 8.

The hospital-boat Louisiana, from Pittsburgh Landland, arrived to-night. No engagement had taken place at Corinth up to yesterday noon. Our forces were gradually advancing, and were on an average of three miles from the enemy's advance. The latter were acting strictly on the defensive, and for three days had not sent out any reconnoitering parties.

The roads are chiefly in bad condition, owing to late heavy rains.

The expedition from Hickman sent against CLAY and KING'S guerrillas, have returned. They fell in with them in the vicinity of Obiew, on the river, and after a sharp skirmish the rebels were routed. It appears that in the first skirmish with CURTISS' Nebraska Horse, six of our men were killed, twelve wounded and fifty captured.

The steamer De Soto, from PORT WRIGHT, has arrived, but brings no news. A rebel spy had been captured while endeavoring to cross the Mississippi at night in a skiff. He had copies of the late Northern papers. He was placed in confinement.

THE HEADQUARTERS OF BEAUREGARD, &c

CHICAGO, Wednesday, May 7.

A special dispatch from Cairo to the Times says:

A refugee from Jackson, Miss., reports that the headquarters of BEAUREGARD are at Pocahontas, and that not far from 75,000 troops are concentrated around him. Gen. LOVELL'S army, at the latest advices, was at Patchapahoe, on the New-Orleans and Jackson Railroad, fifty miles north of New-Orleans.

THE ADVANCE TOWARD CORINTH.

THE CONDITION OF AFFAIRS ON THURSDAY LAST.

Correspondence of the St. Louis Republican.

PITTSBURGH, Thursday, May 1, 1862.

All day yesterday the great army was moving forward. At the right, Gen. LEW. WALLACE pushed on until near Bethel, where he camped for the night. In doing this, constant skirmishing ensued between his command and the enemy. Their pickets swarmed on every hillside, and for hours rapid volleys of musketry were interchanged. As the rebels fled back our troops pressed on, taking several prisoners. WALLACE'S object was to gain possession of the Mobile and Ohio Railroad north of Corinth. By glancing at a map it will be seen the rebels could have otherwise thrown any force they might wish directly in our rear, and thus greatly annoyed the army, even had the movement not been attended with serious consequences.

Great results are to follow from the present battle, and defeat to us would be ruin indeed. Therefore, everything that tends to secure victory, however much time it occupies, will be done.

Gen. WALLACE'S expedition has been highly successful. He pushed forward his command to a point near Bethel, a little town on the railroad. Driving in the rebel pickets, he obtained satisfactory information that the force there was six thousand. Not wishing to bring on an engagement, the advance had been made by Col. DICKEY'S cavalry alone, the infantry remaining at Monterey. The former, after discovering the enemy, instantly made a detour to the left, reaching the railroad between Bethel and Corinth. Seeing a locomotive approaching, they lay in ambush and succeeded in seizing it and making prisoners of four men.

Portions of the track were then torn up, and the engine put under full steam and run off into the ditch. Two bridges, one sixty, the other seventy feet long, were burned, preventing any use of the road. The cavalry returned safely.

By this operation, communication is destroyed between the rebels at Bethel and those at Corinth, and any danger of a flanking movement from the latter position prevented. That BEAUREGARD had the suspected design, is proved by so large a party of his troops being already congregated in the suspected locality.

Gen. MCCLERNAND'S Division advanced a little to the left of WALLACE; next was Gen. BUELL'S command, and on its extreme left Gen. POPE'S. Their routes have been such that the Federal lines halt encircle Corinth from this side, at an average distance away from it of eight miles. Owing to bad roads, moving artillery has been slow work, and to-day the advance divisions rest until it can be brought up. This will occupy the time until to-morrow, when again the front lines will advance. At present the advance rests upon Lick Creek, where the rebels on their retreat burned the bridge. This will have to be rebuilt. A dash by BUELL into Corinth would not be surprising, should any reliable news of the enemy's flight become known. In regard to the roads here, that have so long hindered an advance, they are a silent but stern witness of shameful neglect of or unfitness for duty, by the army engineers. All yesterday I was riding from one point to another, going over the different routes traversed. I passed wagons by dozens stuck in the mud, tongues broken, and property wasted. Many pieces of artillery were also hopelessly mired, and remained fast at evening, while so severe is the labor that half the teams will be unfit for service next week. And yet in not a single instance was there a place where two hours' labor, by fifty men would not have remedied the evil.

The country here is hilly, and the mud holes that have held back a Union army, and perhaps allowed an enemy to escape, are in the ravines, where a ditch generally four or five feet wide has been created by water draining off. A few logs would have rendered crossing safe and easy. On the present march engineering seems to be discarded, and transportation left entirely to Providence and the mules. The ancient lady of anecdote fame trusted in Providence until the harness broke, but such a casualty would fail to alarm our engineers, and their faith will probably last longer than the means of transportation.

Deserters and prisoners still continue to declare the rebel army falling back from Corinth with all possible haste. I spoke with two Germans an hour ago. They arrived here yesterday, escaping while serving on picket duty. According to them, the news of the fall of New-Orleans produced great consternation. Their Captain, a Louisianian, declared all was lost, and that further resistance would uselessly sacrifice life. The work of evacuation was immediately hurried forward, and the whole army, they declared, would be gone by Sunday. So little do privates ever know what really is happening, however, that the numerous statements may yet prove incorrect, and a battle occur. When our army approached Donelson, according to deserters and spies, the foe was rapidly leaving, and there seemed a fair prospect of finding abandoned works. How the contrary proved true is well known. Judging from every movement now being taken, the puzzle of what BEAUREGARD really is doing is as great at headquarters as elsewhere. Looking at probabilities, and judging from testimony, there seems little reason to believe a battle approaching at Corinth. It would not be strange if most o. the rebel army was already at Grand Junction.

Gen. HALLECK and Gen. GRANT will move their quarters to-morrow to this point, and the former takes active command of his army. It is a work of interest but no small magnitude to pass along the whole line of advance. Mile after mile the woods are thronged with armed multitudes hastening forward, their columns reaching from hill to hill and thronging along a dozen different roads. There are thousands of cavalry, batteries by the dozen, and wagon trains that stretch back a distance of seven or more miles.

Should the rebe s stand, and possess numbers anywhere nearly equal, the struggle between the two mighty hosts will be one of fearful interest to the cause of loyalty. The fall of New-Orleans has doubtless made the rebel leaders more desperate and determined for the coming conflict than any since the opening of the rebellion. Yesterday I visited a Confederate hospital that is now within our lines. In it were fifty of their wounded, attended by half-a-dozen rebel physicians. The wretched patients were, many of them, suffering great agony. From neglect and malpractice, the wounded limbs of some had commenced mortifying. Only a dozen of the whole number will recover.

As I close my letter a messenger has just come in from the pickets. He states that ours and those of the enemy are only three or four hundred yards apart, and that they frequently converse, saluting each other in the style of "How are you Reb," "How are you Yank." The Union pickets have been forbidden to shoot at those of the enemy unless the latter commence firing. The rebels have evidently been similarly instructed. Among the changes lately has been the dividing of Gen. GRANT'S army into two bodies, under commands of Generals MCCLERNAND and THOMAS, while Gen. GRANT as before controls the whole.

Some idea of the force now here may be formed from the fact that three different armies—that of the Ohio, that of the West Tennessee, and that of the Mississippi—are all joined in the present enterprise. Should a battle occur, I have good reasons for stating that our leaders will endeavor to make it almost entirely one of artillery. Much is expected from the navy ten-inch shell guns in our possession.

GEN. HALLECK'S ARMY.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writes under date of Pittsburgh Landing, April 30:

"POPE'S army forms our left wing, and is commanded in the field by Maj.-Gen. POPE. BUELL'S army forms the centre, and is commanded in the field by Maj.-Gen. BUELL. GRANT'S army forms the right, and is not commanded in the field by Maj.-Gen. GRANT, but by Major-Gen THOMAS, who has been ordered to relieve the former officer. BUELL and POPE lead their own armies, excepting the reserves, which are of course held back. GRANT does not lead his.

His friends argue that THOMAS has taken the command only because GRANT is next in rank to HALLECK, and should be free from direct charge of corps, lest in the event of HALLECK'S being killed or disabled, the command of the whole army should devolve upon him. It may be so, but I confess I don't yet see it in that light.

The facts, however, I have given; a few days will certainly furnish the correct interpretation, without further speculation now.

Gen. HALLECK'S order on this subject, and other recent changes, have given new Commanders to several divisions. Gen. THOMAS, taking command of the forces in the field, turns over his old division to T. W. SHERMAN—Port Royal SHERMAN—who has recently arrived. Gen. DAVIES, brother to the West Point mathematician, succeeds the late Maj.-Gen. C. F. SMITH in the command of the division which the late Gen. W. H. L. WALLACE had in the recent battle. Gen. MCKEAN succeeds Gen. PRENTISS. Maj.-Gen. MCCLERNAND taking command of the two divisions of reserve from GRANT'S army, his own division falls to Brig.-Gen. JOHN A. LOGAN."

THE NEW REBEL POSITION.

Under date of Cairo, May 4, the correspondent of the Chicago Times writes:

"A large force is still at Corinth, but the enemy has undoubtdly withdrawn the greater portion of his army to Grand Junction and another point still further into the interior. An intelligent loyal citizen of the South, who reached the headquarters of HALLECK a few days since, brought the information already telegraphed, that for four weeks past a large rebel force had been engaged in fortifying Grenada, the junction of the Memphis and New-Orleans and the Central Mississippi Railroads. He also reported that, as he came through, trains were busily transporting rebel troops from Grand Junction and Corinth to Grenada. The latter place is nearly one hundred and twenty-six miles distant from Corinth, and, being the junction of two great railroads, furnishes unsurpassed railroad communication. It is described as a strong natural position, easily fortified and difficult of capture. All accounts in regard to the number of the enemy agree in placing them at from 130,000 to 170,000. Of this number 60,000 are supposed to be concentrated at Corinth, 40,000 at Grand Junction, and 30,000 at Grenada. In addition to their numbers it is reported that the fugitive New-Orleans army of Gen. LOVELL is making its way up to Grenada, there to effect a junction with BEAUREGARD'S force. The rebels have thus three strong positions connected with each other by railroad communication. It is here that they intend to make their stand, which will be short but desperate. And while it is the general impression that the enemy will contest the occupation of Mississippi with the desperation of a forlorn hope, it is also believed that BEAUREGARD has an eye to a retreat upon Memphis, whence he can escape by the Memphis and Little Rock Railroad into Arkansas. Provided, however, he does thus escape, his position will be such as to offer no support to the rebellion. Texas, Arkansas, and Missouri are already cut off from the Confederacy, and in either of these States a rebel army can act only on the defensive. And there is another obstacle—the want of forage and subsistence in such a State as Arkansas, where everything in that line has already been gobbled up by Price's ubiquitous army. The "Lion of Manassas" knows not where to take refuge. Not calculating much on the chances of a defeat, determined to fight till all hope is gone, he has provided for himself two great avenues of escape—through Grand Junction and Memphis to Arkansas, or through Grenada toward Mobile.

GEN. MITCHELL'S COMMAND.

THE BRILLIANT DASH AT BRIDGEPORT.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial.

BRIDGEPORT, Ala., Tuesday, April 29—Midnight.

The march of the brigades of Colonels SILL and LYTLE upon this point, requiring several days of time and a wonderful degree of energy, was one of the most astonishing which they have yet made. In three days they have marched thirty miles overland, and built two bridges, dragging with them in the meantime, and by hand, two pieces of artillery, with their caissons. On Sunday, Col. SILL'S Brigade arrived at Widow Creek, which, a glance at the map, in the region of Stevenson, will give the reader an idea of much sooner and better than I can describe. The back water from the river had flooded the stream, and it was at least three hundred feet in width. While I was wondering by what means we were to cross, the men began to roll cotton bales from the train near by and into it. They then placed them end to end, and by running rails underneath the ropes, which were pried open by means of a crowbar, he securely bound sixty-six bales together in pairs. He then placed them about nine or ten feet apart in the stagnant water, fastening them occasionally by guy ropes—two, I think. Boards were then placed, reaching from the first cotton bale pontoon to the second, and so on until he had a perfect bridge from shore to shore, after which, in less than twenty-two hours after the work had been begun, three thousand men and two pieces of artillery had crossed to the other shore. Gen. MITCHEL has more energy, more ingenuity, more mechanical genius, more resources and a more mobile division than any General of his standing in the volunteer force of the United States.

On Monday morning the march was continued slowly—following along the line of the railroad—the only road in fact to be had, and nightfall saw them some distance from the camp. I understood the purpose in marching slowly was to allow time for Col. LYTLE to reach Col. SILL from Decatur, and coöperate with him in the attack on Bridgeport. On Monday night the Third Ohio came up and added its strength to that of Col. SILL'S Brigade.

The probability is that Col. MANEY was in command of the rebel force, which was known to be four infantry and two cavalry regiments. They had built a fort at Bridgeport, in which two pieces of artillery had been mounted, and heavy breastworks had been thrown up near the fort. The purpose of the rebels appears to have been to hold the Bridgeport bridge over the Tennessee, exactly what Gen. MITCHEL wanted to do. It was said by one or two that Gen. MITCHEL knew he could easily whip them, but that he wanted to do it handsomely, and save the bridge. So, on Tuesday, the General, as per programme, started to do it. The march was long, slow and tedious, and the occasion of as much profanity on the part of the men as any similar trip on record. The pickets of the rebels were discovered four miles from Bridgeport. Our skirmishers quickly drove them in, a few shots only being fired. They were pursued, under instructions, till they had fallen back on a body of infantry and cavalry a mile in the rear, and then our skirmishers quickly returned, as instructed. As soon as the pickets had disappeared, Gen. MITCHEL, with an alacrity that was wonderful, left the railroad, and taking to the woods marched a mile into the interior. His skirmishers soon reached him, and the whole force reached a road a mile from the advance, and which ran nearly parallel with the railroad to Bridgeport. Unsuspecting this movement, the rebel advance, it was afterwards discovered, remained in their position, awaiting Gen. MITCHEL'S attack in force. They threw out skirmishers right and left after a long delay, but they missed Gen. MITCHEL, and prisoners say, returned and reported the enemy not in force and gone. Quickly pursuing his way, Gen. MITCHEL after two hours' hard work, and difficult marching, came upon the enemy. The road rose over a slight hill, at the bottom of which we had formed line of battle, and when near the top of this we first saw them. They had doubtless been in line of battle in their rifle-pits at the time, for their arms were stacked near the front of their line of works. But, as the alarm had proven false, they had engaged at the time in the delightful task of disposing of the evening meal of hard bread and coffee. As the two pieces of LOOMIS' came up the hill, they—he says—instinctively turned nose on the feasting crowd, and demanded to be let loose. Capt. LOOMIS stepped forward on the summit of the hill, and within ten or twenty feet of him were the guards. In an instant their shot-guns were leveled at his breast, but when he drew his revolver the two rebels fled toward the camp to give the alarm. But Capt. LOOMIS had swifter messengers than the guards, and the rebels were apprised of their danger long before the latter messengers reached them. Simultaneous with the cry of alarm uttered by the guards, the "bull dogs" spoke, and the cannister and shell fell in the midst of them, scattering death amongst them and creating a consternation that was comical to behold. They grabbed their muskets and ran in every direction, some even coming in the direction of the line of battle which we had formed. A few attempted to stand, and did, until the second round, when away they went after the main body, which had fled to the bridge for safety. The order was now given, and away we went down the hill with a charge, and with a yell. But the enemy had gone, and had to fine a start ever to be caught, except by Capt. LOOMIS, who finding they had gotten beyond the range of cannister, tried them with shell. This only accelerated their speed, and they hardly stopped to fire the bridge effectually. They left the portion of the bridge west of the island untouched, but fired that part beyond. Gen. MITCHEL sent men to the island and saved most of it.

No sooner had the enemy disappeared on the further shore than Capt. LOOMIS ran his pieces into the valley, and across it into the rebel breastworks. He placed them in positions, and waited the appearance of the advance. He had not long to wait. Down the road at double-quick came infantry and cavalry—the latter in splendid style, and looking very imposing. They had heard the firing, and had come down to engage in it. But when the men in the intrenchments opened upon them, they were more astonished than the reserve had been. An officer or two ran forward, and cried out not to fire on our own men, but they quickly saw their mistake when Capt. LOOMIS let them have another round of cannister, and the infantry a round of musketry. Away they went, helter-skelter, and our men after them.

The battle had lasted twenty minutes perhaps, not more, but the pursuit is not yet finished. We shall take not less than five or six hundred prisoners, and their dead and wounded will amount to seventy or eighty. The two pieces of artillery which they had are in our possession, and the whole force is dispersed forever and a day. There is a large quantity of stores beyond the river in a rebel camp, none of which it will be possible for them to take away.

DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA.

The Hospitals in Newbern—Instruction of the Poor—The Blacks at Work—An Appeal to Northern Liberality.

From Our Own Correspondent.

NEWBERN, Saturday, May 3.

I paid a visit to the hospitals in Newbern on Thursday, and was very much gratified at their excellent and improved condition. The Academy Hospital is eligibly situated in a fine grassy park, surrounded by breezy elms, whose grateful shade tempers the heat of the sun, and from whose branches birds constantly sing to the inmates. It is divided into four chief rooms, two on each side, with a wide hall in the centre. The wounded occupy one side of the house, and the sick the other. The rooms are high and perfectly ventilated, and are wholly free from any offensive odor or impure air, suggestive of wounds or disease. A large part of the severely wounded cases are in this hospital, thirty-two having been sent home by a late steamer. The remainder, who are not able to go, are some twenty in number, and thirty-three fever cases, of which ten or twelve are convalescent. There are forty other cases of fever in the Masonic Hall Branch Hospital and contiguous buildings.

The condition of the sick is greatly improved within the last ten days. These hospitals are in the charge of Dr. DERBY.

Mr. VINCENT COLYER, the laborious and discreet agent of the Young Men's Christian Association, has been constituted Superintendent of the Poor, and has general charge of the distribution of relief to the destitute families, besides the employment of contrabands, who throng into Newbern to seek protection and work.

The proportions to which this Christian branch of the War Department has grown, will surprise our people, and reveal a new phase in the character of the war in the South.

Over three hundred families, averaging 4½ persons each, are now daily receiving relief from the army stores. Mr. COLYER reports the number of applications from white persons, during the month of April, at 706, many of which were heads of families. He distributed during the same time 20 boxes hard biscuits, 30 barrels flour, 10 barrels sugar, 5 barrels coffee, 10 tierces rice, 6 barrels beef, 13 barrels pork, 9 barrels bacon, 5 boxes candles, 13 boxes soap, 1 box tea, 2 barrels meal, 1 barrel hominy, 2 barrels beans, 1 barrel salt, 1 barrel molasses, 3 kegs peas. Some who had provisions concealed on their premises have applied for relief, but when their servants have been sent on such errands, they have generally exposed the attempted fraud, and saved the department from imposition. Others stalk into the headquarters of Mr. COLYER, and demand provisions as a right. Several very impudent letters have been sent to the superintendent, ordering such articles as the writers required, and directing him to make up in quantity what might be omitted in variety asked for. All such infatuated persons are quickly informed that they have mistaken the alms-house for a grocery-store, and are referred to the sutlers. If they are offered work, they consider themselves grossly insulted. Women and children are tenderly cared for, and Mr. COLYER and Mr. MENDEL, his able assistant, renders daily evidences that there are many grateful recipients of the Government bounty in the town. Some of the whites are furnished employment on the bridge across the Trent, which is being rapidly rebuilt.

The blacks gladly accept of work on the fortifications and other works near the town, where there are some seven hundred now employed. A splendid fortification commanding the approaches to the town has been completed wholly by their labor. They receive rations and eight dollars per month. They have thus relieved the soldiers of the most fatiguing labor, and left them to guard the town and its approaches. It is hoped that when they are paid, those who have performed so much useful labor in Gen. PARKE'S division, will not be forgotten. About 4,433 black persons have received assistance, but the amount distributed to them bears no comparison, in quantity, to that distributed to white families.

Mr. COLYER has established a thriving school for the blacks in the African Methodist Church, which is thronged on every evening of the week except Saturdays. Over six hundred children and adults are thus being taught to read. Non-commissioned officers of the Twenty-fifth Massachusetts Regiment have volunteered as teachers, and the work is going on encouragingly. These dusky pupils evince the greatest eagerness to learn, and many cases of remarkable aptitude have appeared.

Since the evacuation of the town, the white schools have all been neglected, and the poor children have roamed uncared for about the place. Mr. COLYER has accordingly begun the organization of schools for their instruction, and several intelligent young ladies of the place will find employment as teachers.

A hospital for the poor has been established, one building being set apart for the whites and another for the blacks, and Dr. CLARK, a surgeon, detailed by Gov. ANDREW, has taken charge of it. Fifty-four persons have been admitted; thirty-five discharged and six have died. The cases are chiefly typhoid fever and pneumonia. Besides these, 180 cases have been prescribed for at their residences. The hospital nurses sent for have not yet arrived.

Mr. COLYER has received upward of 126 boxes of hospital comforts for the sick, valued at over $6,000, during the last two months. There is, however, still a great scarcity of women's clothing for the white residents, as well as for the almost naked contraband women who pour in from the surrounding country. Cast-off calico dresses, or plain new calico for women's and children's wear, and bleached or unbleached muslin for undergarments, are greatly needed.

Any donations of this kind sent to the care of Dr. SCHAUFLER, Surgeon at the Park barracks hospital, will be taken immediately to Newbern by the next steamer leaving New-York.

Among the changes in the military organization of the Department, we notice that of the Second Brigade, which stands as follows:

Second Brigade—Gen. RENO'S Division—Col. Ed. FERRERO, Acting Brig.-Gen:—21st Massachusetts Volunteers, 51st New-York Volunteers, 51st Pennsylvania Volunteers, 11th Connecticut Volunteers.

Staff—Lieut. G. H. McKibbin, Acting Asst. Adjt.-Gen.; Lieut. John T. Rapelje, Acting Asst. Q. M.; Lieut. D. W. Horton, Acting Asst. Com. of Subsistence; Lieut. H. T. Marshall, Aide-de-Camp; A. F. Walcott, Volunteer Aide-de-Camp, with the rank of Second Lieutenant.

Several arrests have been made within a few days by the Provost-Marshal, under the recent stringent order of Gen. BURNSIDE concerning treasonable utterances against the United States Government.

There was an arrival at Newbern on the 2d of May, of the new United States transport steamship General Burnside. She was built by Messrs. HARLAN, HOLLINGSWORH & Co., of Wilmington, Del.; the hull is iron, length, 170, depth, 17 feet, breadth, 28 feet, and measures about 550 tons. Her officers are: D. L. WILCOX, Commander; D. Loper WILCOX, First Officer; Geo. W. Tobias, Purser; Robt. Best, First Engineer; Hugh C. Clark, Second Engineer. Her speed has been entirely satisfactory; the ship was very deeply laden, and was out in very heavy easterly gales, and has proven herself to be a very superior sea boat; her engines worked admirably, making an average speed from the Capes of the Delaware to the Capes of Virginia, and from Fortress Monroe to Hatteras Inlet of 9½ knots per hour. The ship is provided with RAYMOND'S metallic lifeboats, steam-pumps, &c. She is a three-masted vessel, and carries heavy fore-and-aft sails. E. S.

THE FIFTY-FIRST REGIMENT NEW-YORK VOLUNTEERS.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTY-FIRST REGIMENT, N. Y. V.
NEWBERN, N. C., Tuesday, April 22, 1862.

Everything in and around Newbern remains quiet, and although there are constant movements of the army here, it is all done in so orderly a manner that very little change is perceptible, and nothing in fact is known of the objects and plans of these movements, save to the chief who originated them.

There have been quite a number of changes in the Fifty-first Regiment since the battle of Newbern; also promotions and appointments caused by the casualties of the battle. Lieut.-Col. POTTER and Major LE GENDRE have both returned to New-York badly wounded—the Major very severely. As neither of them will return again to the regiment, the senior Captain, HAZARD, will act as Lieutenant-Colonel, and Capt. MITCHELL, of Company H, will be raised to the rank of Major. Capt. MITCHELL is well known in New-York, having for many years been an active member of the Seventh Regiment. He is a gentleman of fine appearance, and although a strict disciplinarian and rather stern toward his men, is beloved by them all, as they know his kind heart, and are all witnesses of his bravery, as shown upon more than one battle-field. JOHN H. BUCKLEY has been appointed Second Lieutenant in Company H, "for bravery shown on the field of battle."

HEADQUARTERS SECOND DIVISION, DEPARTMENT OF NORTH CAROLINA, NEWBERN, April 23, 1862.

GENERAL ORDERS No. 40.—I. The Second Division will be organized into two brigades, comprising at present the following regiments:

First Brigade, commanded by Col. NAGLE, consisting of the Forty-eighth Pennsylvania, Ninth New-Jersey, Second Maryland and One Hundred and Third New-York.

Second Brigade, commanded by Col. FERRERO, consisting of the Twenty-First Massachusetts, Fifty-first New-York, Fifty-first Pennsylvania and Eleventh Connecticut.

II. The acting Brigadiers will at once assume command, organize their Staffs, and report the names of their Staff officers to these headquarters.

III. All communications from regimental headquarters will pass through the brigade commanders.

THE MOUNTAIN DEPARTMENT.

Advance of Gen. Cox to New River—Flight of the Rebels—Important Operations in Progress.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times:

HEADQUARTERS MOUNTAIN DEPARTMENT, NEAR PARISBURGH, Va., May 8.

A dispatch from Fayetteville announces that the advance of Gen. COX, composed of part of the Twenty-third Ohio, under Maj. COWLEY, occupied Giles Court-House and Darrows, on New River, yesterday.

The rebels ran, and did not burn the place as intended.

Abundant Commissary stores, a Lieutenant-Colonel, Major and twenty privates were captured. The citizens remain, and seem loyal. The defeat of the rebels at Camp Creek was more important than was at first supposed.

Gen. MILROY is now fighting, and SCHENCK is advancing. Particulars of these movements are forbidden.

DISPATCH FROM GEN. FREMONT.

HEADQUARTERS MOUNTAIN DEPARTMENT, May 8, 1862.

Hon. E. M. Stanton:

Gen. Cox telegraphs that his advance, consisting of part of the Twenty-third Ohio, under Maj. CONLEY, occupied Giles Court-house and the Narrows of New-River yesterday, driving out the rebels, who were taken by surprise. A considerable quantity of commissary stores was taken, and some twenty privates made prisoners. The surprise prevented the burning of the place, as the rebels intended. The citizens remain, and most of them seem loyally disposed. He adds that the reverses of the enemy at Camp Creek increase in importance as they become more known. (Signed) JOHN C. FREMONT,
Major-General Commanding.

NEWS FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

The Visit of President Lincoln—He Takes a View of the Merrimac.

FORTRESS MONROE, Wednesday, May 7, Via Baltimore, Thursday, May 8.

President LINCOLN arrived here this morning, and spent the day with Gen. WOOL. This afternoon he visited Newport News, to see Gen. MANSFIELD, and to have a clear view of the Merrimac, which has been lying off Craney Island all the afternoon, for the purpose, no doubt, of preventing our gunboats from running up the James River. She made no attempt to come out.

The George Peabody arrived here from Hatteras, today, and started immediately for New-York.

No news has transpired.

Arrival of the George Peabody.

The United States steam transport Geo. Peabody, WINDERS, from Hatteras Inlet, on the 6th inst., via Fortress Monroe, to the United States Assistant Quartermaster, arrived here yesterday. The Geo. Peabody has on board 35 passengers, mostly officers and privates, discharged and on furlough.

Nothing of importance had transpired at Hatteras since last advices.

The United States transport Eastern Queen, for New-York, with sick and wounded soldiers, was to leave next day; the transports, Albany and Cossack, hence, had just arrived.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

AN AGGRAVATED CASE OF MALICIOUS MISCHIEF.—Some very maliciously disposed person or persons, entered the marble-yard of Mr. RICHARD S. COOK, situated on the corner of Broadway and Twenty-second-street, on Wednesday night, and wantonly destroyed property of his, consisting of statuary, tombstones, vases, &c., to the amount of over $2,000. All of the tombstones in the yard were very badly defaced; the heads, hands, feet, &c., of the statues were broken off, and, in fact, the entire premises were one scene of ruin when they were entered yesterday morning by the proprietor. The facts of the case were immediately communicated to the Police, and a detective has been commissioned to ferret out the guilty party, if possible. There is little hope of success, however, for Mr. COOK has no idea who could wish to do him so great an injury.

A COUNTERFEITER CAUGHT IN WALL-STREET.—Late yesterday afternoon a man, who gave his name as GEORGE BARTON, entered the broker's office of THOMPSON & SON, in Wall-street, and produced seven $100 bills, which he desired to get changed for City funds. The bills were upon the Alleghany Bank, of Pittsburgh, Penn., and were exceedingly well engraved, upon the best kind of paper. Good judges examined them, however, and found that they were all counterfeits, though so well executed as to deceive some of the experts in Wall-street. BARTON was taken into custody, and is detained at Police Headquarters, where all who have been defrauded may call to-day and identify him. It is known that quite a number of the spurious bills have been passed in the City.

Commencement of the New-York University—Law Department.

At the annual Commencement of this popular and growing institution, which took place on Wednesday evening, 7th inst., there were graduated thirty students. The exercises were highly complimentary to the patrons and friends of the University. The orations of the young gentlemen who spoke evinced a practical, as well as a theoretic knowledge of the legal science.

The subjects selected, the manner they were treated, and the tone of the performance, showed that the labors of the school have had that regard for the practical part of education, so essential to the man of use, a man for the times.

Without disparaging the efforts of any, it would be injustice not to refer to the oration of U. C. BREWER, of Indiana. His subject, "False Patriotism," or, as styled by him, "Shoddy Patriotism," was a decided happy effort.

Ladies' Five Points Mission.

The eighteenth anniversary of this excellent charity was celebrated, last evening, at the Academy of Music, the auditorium of the house being crowded. Some two hundred of the children belonging to the institution (ranging in age from six to sixteen) were seated on tiers of raised seats at the back of the stage. The exercises engaged in by these promising scholars were interestingly varied, and showed a great deal of intelligence, combined with patient training. One fine-looking boy, THOMAS H. GAUGHAN by name, gave special evidence of natural capacity and self-reliance. The opening prayer was offered by Rev. W. H. MILBURN; Rev. H. B. RIDGEWAY delivered an address, and Bishop JANES, who presided, pronounced the benediction. A collection was taken up, and subscriptions announced to a total amount of $1,500, of which $500 was donated by DANIEL DREW, Esq. The financial statement of the Society exhibits an account of $8,157 32 disbursements, against $8,234 45 receipts, leaving a balance in hand of $76 83. There is, however, a debt of $3,000 due on the building at the Five Points.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

American Congregational Union.

The Annual Reunion of this Society took place in the Academy of Music last evening. The house by 7 o'clock, the hour announced for the exercises to commence, was filled from parquette to gallery, a major portion of the audience, as is usual on such occasions, being composed of ladies. The stage was occupied by a large number of clergymen and a number of distinguished laymen, representing nearly if not every ecclesiastical denomination. Punctually at 7 o'clock Rev. RUFUS W. CLARK, of Brooklyn, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, in his most felicitous manner, introduced the Chairman of the meeting in the person of Rev. Dr. THOMPSON, who, in a few happy remarks, following his induction into office before the footlights, soon made the audience feel at home, and prepared the way, in a measure, for the good things in store for them. But there was a something, which, to a certain extent, seemed to cast a gloom over all present, and particularly the speakers, if we can believe their own statements, for each one in turn alluded to it, more or less directly. This feeling was produced by the neglect of the committee to supply the refreshments heretofore furnished at the annual meetings of the Society; and flowers for the ladies. Notwithstanding this drawback, all present will have occasion to remember, for a long time, the meeting of last evening. The Chairman introduced the speakers in the following order: Prof. HITCHCOCK, of the Union Theological Seminary; Rev. Mr. FOSS, of the Fleet-street M. E. Church, Brooklyn; WM. ALLEN BUTLER; Rev. J. ELLIS, of the Church of the Heights (Dutch Reformed); Rev. Mr. HOLMES, (Congregationalist,) of Jersey City; Rev. Dr. EDDY, Baptist, Boston; and in the absence of HENRY WARD BEECHER, an acceptable substitute was found in the person of the Rev. Dr. STONE, of the Park-street Presbyterian Church, Boston. The speeches were sandwiched with hymns, sung by the whole audience, accompanied by an excellent band of music. Rev. Mr. ANDERSON opened the exercises with prayer, and the meeting was closed with a benediction pronounced by Rev. Dr. BADGER.

The Chairman was in his happiest mood, and introduced each speaker with his unapproachable dry humor, and fairly placing them upon their legs, left them with the audience. Each and all seemed to be full of sentiment and good humor, facetiæ and logic, as a bottle of sodawater is with gas, and all that was required to set them off was for the Chairman to knock the cork out, a ceremony which he performed in a skillful manner. There was one topic that all touched upon, and of which, the audience never seemed to tire. That was the Union cause. Slavery was incidentally held up in its true light, and the most Anti-Slavery sentiments uttered were the most loudly applauded. The names of LINCOLN, MCCLELLAN, FOOTE, FARRAGUT, BURNSIDE, HUNTER, and other Union officers, elicited rounds of applause whenever mentioned. All that was really lacking to have made the entertainment unexceptionable was someting to eat (for the ministers,) flowers (for the ladies,) and a speech from Mr. BEECHER. The proceedings closed at 11 o'clock.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—At the last regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education, a report of the Finance Committee was submitted, with a statement of the amounts required for carrying on the public schools in 1863, viz.:

BROOKLYN CENTRAL RAILROAD—EXTRA ACCOMMODATIONS.—In answer to the increasing demands of travel over the South Ferry and Atlantic-street to Bedford, the Brooklyn Central Company has decided to run extra cars from the South Ferry to Bedford, from 5 to 7 o'clock every afternoon, in addition to the number of cars hitherto run on Atlantic-avenue from Fulton and Wall-street Ferries. The cars will leave the South Ferry promptly on the arrival of the ferry boats, and not before, so that persons desiring to ride will not have to tarry for a car, and will be very likely to obtain a comfortable seat.

Fire in Jamaica, L. I.

JAMAICA, L. I., Thursday, May 8.

About 9 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the bakery and dwelling of ANDREW CHESHIRE.

The building was nearly destroyed, together with PETTIT'S harness shop.

The building was owned by G. EDWARDS. Loss about $2,000.

Mr. CHESHIRE'S loss is about $1,000; insured in the Equitable Insurance Company for $1,400, and in the Firemens'
